something is just a bit... show but I can't get my finger on it. Allie always - me to know what is wrong and her no problem with telling me it either looks stupid or he likes it."

Welch does not charge for extra creativity.
"When a customer or hostess buys something and requests it to be spray painted or a little ribbon or flower on it, I do it for free, because painting them with a good quality product that looks well in their home is important."

Why is the Home Interiors fever catching in so many area homes?
Welch explained, "It used to be the women worked out because she wanted to, but now she works out because she has to."

"Now those working women, and many of the men too, are spending more time at home with their family, so naturally they would have a tendency to want more in their home."

"That is exactly what Home Interiors is all about, these extras that make your home a home."

There is a catch in a great show.
"You really have to have the personality for it because you have to sell yourself and make them like you before you can sell anything else."
"I think at least 90 percent of the hostesses have been great, but what I do is pick out someone in the audience and center on them."

"The night I had one girl that had just got engaged and centered the attention on her for the show, and that always works well."
Sheer "cream-of-the-croissant" include looking five shows to hold three, being relaxed and open and do not set an "unrealistic goal before you enter the show."
She said, "You'll be really disappointed if you set a goal of $500 and just get $110 even, though you got many bookings."

What is the extra incentive for hosting a party in your home?
"You receive merits for free hostess gifts if you quests have brought so much and if you have so many outside orders."

The routine of looking to match the navy attire.
According to bank president Lanny Hutchinson the coordinated, and planned dress, is just one part of the bank's quest for excellence in service and appearance.

FNB approves uniform dress

In an effort to offer a professional, distinctive look for its employees, First National Bank of Carlisle has begun a program of uniform dress.
All female employees have been outfitted in professionally planned, career apparel.

The bank's management believes part of being a professional is dressing like one. In an effort to help create this professional appearance and self-confidence of course is a lasting impression, the institution began the program.

Group identity is also an important part of the program, which allows all full-time staff members to be part of the working program - working together, not apart.
"The program helps identify the dress code of the bank without complicated rules, and helps avoid extreme styles of dress."

believes the appearance of its Depot museum.....

She added that anyone who wanted to add stories, or listen to the tapes is more than welcome to utilize the museum's recorder and facilities.
Of course, that is what the museum is for, the people of Carlisle.
There are family historians contained in several books the museum has access to, and family history is what drew Howard to the museum.

Her father, Harry Galbraith, was in the library one day looking at microfilm about families in Nicholas County. As an example she pulled out a scrapbook
someone had kept as a record of Nicholas Countians a activity in the Korean War.
She said they would also like genealogy.

She said they are really looking for things like scrapbooks or diaries, that tell of day to day life in Nicholas County. As an example she
activity in the Korean War.
genealogy.
