

EXCHANGES ARE EASIER WHEN YOU SHOP AT HOME

Smart shoppers know they always save time, money and worry by simply buying everything from people they know...hometown merchants.

But, like many people, maybe you haven't learned that yet.

Your local stores and service shops knock themselves out to provide you with the best selection, the lowest prices and the finest service anywhere. They're good friends to know.

And if you happen to bring home something that doesn't fit, it will be much easier to exchange right here at home.

GENERAL NEWS

Stephenson remembers

There is time for supper. Of course, we didn't have any cars to wash out for the horses. The Stephensons also owned an orchard.

"One time Mother told me and Hans to get pick apples, and Hans did not want to."

He laughed as he recalled. "Hans said there wasn't anybody down there worth anything except Ma, and she wasn't worth much."

He also attended school at East Union, until junior high school.

"I went to school in a one room school house where the boys went all the way up to the seventh grade."

"My first grade teacher was Brigitte Hickey. I went to her 100 birthday party when I was 92," he said.

But that was in a day when East Union was a thriving business community.

"East Union had three mercantile stores and three blacksmith shops, now they don't have anything," he said.

Stephenson also met his wife in Nicholas County.

He said, "I met her (Effie Moore) at the Moorfield Methodist Church. I knew her before that, but she didn't seem to notice me."

"Back then, many couples courted by lantern, but we didn't have it."

(A practice in which couples would walk before the adults who carried lanterns to light the way.)

But Stephenson has not only seen progress, but also the immense loss of a World War two.

"We all signed up for WWI, but we were lucky and weren't called."

"I sent three sons, Everett, Thom, and Lloyd, to war in WWII and got lucky (scrap) when they all came home."

"And I don't know how many families we lost during the Korean and Viet Nam wars," he said.

Stephenson was also involved in politics, being election officer in Nicholas County for over 25 years, and voted his first chance, at age 21.

He said, "When I was born, Crever Cleveland was president, and he in the first election I got to vote. I voted for Theodore Roosevelt."

"I guess the best president I've seen so far is Eisenhower."

Stephenson also remembers Roosevelt on the radio for those fire hose chats, electricity and telephone first installation, and like all boys, his first car, a Model T Ford.

"Everybody got electricity when it first came through, and we got to do a lot of things we didn't before, but it took a while before everybody got a telephone."

"In 1922 I got a Model T, but it wouldn't pull up Broadway Hill too good, so we turned it around and backed it up."

Stephenson commented.
