Mason falls to NCHS girls

SPORTS EXTRA

The Lady Jackets played against a strong defense Thursday night as they prevailed over the Mason County Lady Royals, 50-35.

Well over half the first quarter had run before either Nicholas or Mason were able to put any score on the board.

However, the Jackets mounted as good a defensive effort. Nikki Simont successfully pulled a steal from Mason's Missy Middleton, but Christy Hatton's shot failed to strip the net.

Sharrone Jackson, touted to give the Jackets their biggest challenge, won't bring another three points to the net.

Michelle Kelley tied the score off a foul shot, but Smoot and Early Histon brought a two-point basket in as the Jackets began to penetrate the Royals' inside defense.

Smoot helped set up Christa Auxier's two off a pass to the inside.

Finally, with 4:45 left to go in the first quarter, Tracy Earlywine rebounded Simont's shot attempt and laid the ball back in the basket for two.

But, points would come few and far between and mostly as a result of a strong defensive posture in the quarter, but soon began to get called. She lugged her first foul blocking Jackson's shot. Jackson took one of two foul shots at 2:50 and brought the score to 2-1, Nicholas.

Michelle Kelley tied the score off a foul shot, but Smoot and Early Histon fouled Jackson and, with Jackson's shot, the Royals trailed by nine.

Kristie Bars came into the game and gave Nicholas an 11 point lead at 6:20 with a lay up and one foul shot, but with the absence of Denkins, Nicholas' defense seemed break loose.

Ormes scored from just inside the three point mark and Hay followed up with a stinging lay up for 17-9.

Ormes quickly came up with another score, but the Royals' streak came to a halt as Tina Fryman fouled on Jackson, and left the temporarily deflated Mason's drive.

Aside from two sets of foul shot on the Royals' side, no other shot made the basket. By the end of the half, the score remained in Nicholas' favor, 20-14.

Though the first half had been low scoring, it was not so with the second.

Barely a minute had ticked by when Denkins, back in play, fired one for two, while Lori Conway returned the favor on the Royals' side of the court.

Smoot's aim improved some what with a smooth two pointer from the key to maintain the Jackets' 10 point lead. But as often as Nicholas could score, Mason would come back to match.

Nicholas shot for 43 percent and Mason came in with a low 28 percent.

By the fourth quarter, the score developing into a commanding lead for the Jackets at 40-25.

Earlywine and Smoot scored early for the Jackets, while Jackson and Hige Burns managed to keep the Jackets from gaining any further ground in the lead.

By 3:29, the score stood at 44-31 when Denkins committed her fifth foul, on Jackson, and left the game.

Jackson took one her free throws off Denkins' foul, turned and picked up a foul from Smoot.

Ormes picked up the Royals' final score of the evening with an easy shot from the outside with 1:31 to go.

But Earlywine ended scoring for the game with a jump shot at 17 seconds.

Earlywine came out easily as a high scorer with 19 points and 10 rebounds, followed by Histon with 10 points, 8 rebounds and Smoot what with a smooth two pointer with 6 and three. Ormes had 12 points for Mason County.

Nicholas shot for 43 percent and Mason came in with a low 28 percent.
