 his long completion was to John Irwin for 23 yards.

Irwin had a game high seven catches for 81 yards, but the normally potent MSU passing game could not muster a score - or set up the running game for a touchdown.

Made Tennessee pad the game completely out of reach with 17 points in the third quarter, while after the game, Baldridge's assistant coaches said he was talking to the team when he began complaining of chest pains. Stacy said, Baldridge was taken "conscious and taken" to St. Clair Medical Center, he said.

Baldridge had remained on the sidelines for the entire game.

Several Morehead officials, including MSU Athletic Director Steve Hamilton, went to St. Clair to check on Baldridge's condition.

Baldridge missed parts of the 1987 and 1988 seasons because of heart problems. He had two balloon angioplasties to relieve heart blockage in 1987 and had coronary bypass surgery in 1988. The bypass surgery was performed at Central Baptist, Stacy said.

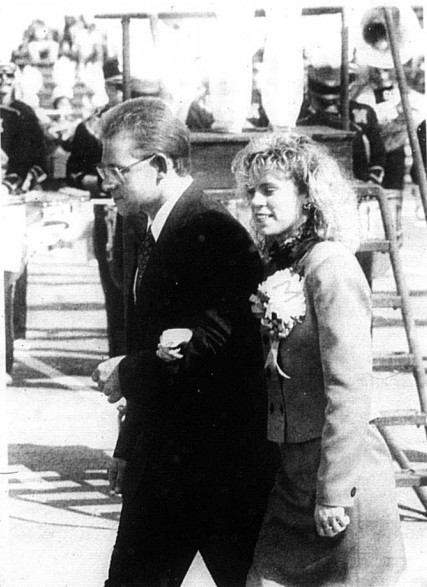

The latest report available on Baldridge was that he was in fair condition in the intensive care unit of Central Baptist hospital.

Cardiacization testing to determine the amount of blockage Baldridge may or may not have was scheduled for sometime Monday.
