Grote praises MSU graduates

Addressing what he called the largest crowd he could remember having ever seen at a Winter Commencement, Morehead State University President C. Nelson Grote praised the graduates for having achieved this milestone in their lives.

Dr. Grote told the group that their accomplishments would be observed by others. "You will serve as role models for your brothers and sisters," he said. "You will make outstanding contributions to the community where you live and work."

Nearly 350 graduate and undergraduate degrees were conferred in ceremonies in the Academic-Athletic Center on Saturday, December 15, with two-thirds of the candidates in attendance.

Announcing that MSU had received reaffirmation for its accreditation from the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools (SACS), president Grote told the graduates that this was important for them as for the University. "I means we can continue to employ good faculty and have outstanding students," he said. "our degrees are honored by other institutions and supporters want to give.

"As graduates, you are as well prepared as you can be and you will be as good as you decide to be," Dr. Grote said of their future plans.

Student speaker, Teresa Ann Lambert of Kensington, Ohio, reminded her classmates that they were leaving with more than a degree. "We also have growth, maturity, a broadened mind, and a greater understanding of others."

An agriculture science major, Lambert compared college to the birth of a colt. "We were afraid to take those first few clumsy steps," she said. "But once we became more confident, we took this college by storm and learned so much."

Your first goal should be to decide what makes you happy, she challenged the group warning that happiness may not come with the use of their degree. "It's not the degree that is important, but the pride, confidence, problem solving abilities, and communication skills we have learned here," she said. "You must be happy before you can help make others happy."

"From Morehead State University, we have received the raw material, the framework on which to build out careers and our lives. Now it is time for us to start building," said Lambert, who is the daughter of Harry and Betty Neff of Kensington. Lambert and Her Husband Timothy are expecting their first child later this month.

A Dean's List student, she is a member of Phi Kappa phi honor society and graduated summa cum laude with a 4.0 Cumulative grade point average.

After degrees were conferred by President Grote, the graduates were inducted into the MSU Alumni Association by Ted Coakley of Harrison, Ohio, the association president.

Following commencement, Dr. and Mrs. Grote hosted a reception honoring the new graduates and their families and sponsored by the Alumni Association.

Nicholas County downs Deming, 57-49

By Hank Bond
The Carlisle Mercury Staff

CARLISLE — Nicholas County's Lady Jackets escaped with a 57-49 win over Deming, Thursday night, using a 22 point performance from freshman Kim Denkins.

The Lady Jackets, now 7-0, struggled from the beginning, often threatening to blow the Lady Devils, now 5-2, out of the gym, only to allow the visitors to get right back into the game.

"I knew it would happen. We aren't playing as well as we can," said Barbara Kenney NCHS Head Coach during a timeout.

Although Kim Denkins controlled the tip, Deming's Kelley Thompson grabbed the ball and went straight to the hoop for a 2-0 Deming lead.

Tacy Earlywine tied the score with a layup at the 6:38 mark on the clock.

The game turned into a non-offensive show as the Devils were whistled for two fouls, each after a missed basket, but with 5:38 to play in the quarter, Denkins hit one of two free throws to make it 3-2 NCHS.

Deming failed to convert on its trip down the floor and with a quick outlet pass to Nikki Smoot, a thread the needle pass to Earlywine was good for a layup basket. On the whistle Deming's Kelly Thompson was whistled for a foul and Earlywine canned the free shot to make it 6-2 Nicholas County.

The Jackets continued to build their lead, as Denkins had a nifty assist to Earlywine for another layup and Denkins followed her own miss for a basket and Nicholas County was rolling.

When Earlywine scored her ninth points of the quarter on a layup with 3:34 to play in the quarter, NCHS had run off 10 straight and was steaming with a 12-2 lead.

But the lead would be short lived.

With the exception of a Christie Hatton follow up, after all five Jackets had taken a shot at the basket, the Lady Devils filled up the basket.

Amey Lowdenback had a layup, Chasity Shepherd had three, 3-point baskets and Thompson hit a layup off a steal, and the Lady Devils took the lead at 15-14 as the horn sounded to end the first quarter.

Smoot gave the Jackets the lead back with a shot from the free throw line as Earlywine hit from three feet out on the left and Denkins canned two free throws to make it 20-15 with 6:15 to play in the half.

Lowdenback hit a layup for the Devils, but the Jackets continued to score as Denkins hit a jumper from the free throw line and it was 22-17.

The Devils cut the lead to free throw line, Denkins had 23-21 as Robin Messer hit a from six feet out, but the Jackets continued to cling to the lead as Renee Linville hit one of two free throws to make it 24-21.

Deming knotted the score at 24-24 on a 3-point goal by Kristen Gifford with 1:24 to play in the half.

Smoot hit from the top of the key after a Denkins layup had given Nicholas County the lead back.

Gifford had two free throws to cut the lead to 28-26 and a basket by Shepherd just inside the three point line evened the game at 28-28 with 21 seconds to play until intermission.

Earlywine failed on two attempts at the free throw line, but Hatton canned a layup following her steal on the Deming outlet pass after the second free throw and the Jackets stopped Deming in the final 10 second to cling to a 30-28 lead at intermission.

After Deming missed on its first second half possession, Hatton hit from six feet out in the lane, to make it 32-28 NCHS.

Shepherd brought Deming with one on a three point shot and a lead on a Lowdenback basket with 6:24 to play in the quarter.

Denkins countered for NCHS to make it 34-33, the first of six straight for the 6-foot-3 center and Nicholas led 38-35 with 3:45 to play.

Denkins also had two of her nine Nicholas shots for the game in this stretch and helped keep defensive pressure on the Devils.

Lowdenback canned a three point shot with 2:38 to play, as Nicholas went cold.

After five possessions netted no points, Gifford hit a soaring 3-point goal from the right side and Deming had recaptured the lead at 40-38 with 23:06 to platy.

Denkins tied it at 40-40 on a layup, and Andrea Galbraith lifted Nicholas back into the lead on a six foot shot from the right after a dump pass from Denkins.

Deming tied it on a 12 footer by Tonya Fryman, but Smoot gave the Jackets a 44-42 lead as the quarter ended with her free throw line jumper with 17 seconds to play.

Final eight minutes give Nicholas win

Gifford evened the game for the final time at 44-44 with 6:18 to play in the contest on a jumper from the right.

Kristi Barton hit one of two free throws to give Nicholas the lead for good.

Denkins had a follow up basket on an Earlywine miss, Earlywine fielded a pass from Hatton for a layup with 4:37 to go in the game, Nicholas led 49-44.

Shepherd had a couple charity tosses for Deming, but Earlywine had two from the

The Smoot free throw made it 57-46 with 25 seconds to play as Shepherd added a 3-pointer with one second to go in setting the final margin.

Earlywine finished with 16 to trail Denkins' 22, and Shepherd led Deming with 16 points.

Denkins also had 16 rebounds to claim game honors.
