Alicia Sibert, eighth grader and daughter of Martha and Eugene Sibert, was DAR essay contest winner in the Jeremiah Johnson Chapter.

All eighth graders were invited to write an essay about a famous inventor.

On Feb. 3, Sibert read the text of her essay to the members of the Jeremiah Johnson Chapter.

Sibert not only competed with students from Nicholas County, but also with students from Bourbon County and Paris Independent.

Sibert said she was nervous about presenting her essay to people, not having that much experience in public speaking.

But she said she enjoyed researching an inventor, who was somewhat obscure.

"Most people I knew were concentrating on inventors like Edison, so I wanted to do something a little different," Sibert said.
