

Council chambers at capacity

Council will hear the second reading of intent to annex at its next meeting and then progress with the business to annex the property with another ordinance, should it pass the intent ordinance on second reading.

Watson said it would be necessary to make certain everything is legal if council votes to annex the property should the city face any litigation from the action.

Paul told council he would do his best to bring the proper information before council to facilitate the vote.

In other business, council will review plant materials until specifications can be reviewed by engineers.

Approved, 4-2, with permission and by voting no, to ban smoking during council meetings in council chambers.

Approved a $500 donation to Bluegrass Regional Recycling Corp. for a feasibility study.

Heard a report that the sewer plant project is 92 percent complete.

To qualify for employment with the Census Bureau applicants must pass a short written test and must be U.S. citizens. They should be 18 years old, although younger persons with a high school diploma may be considered. The test takes about half-an-hour and is designed to check simple math skills, basic map reading and ability to follow instructions. Qualified individuals must also have reliable transportation.

The census count will be on April 1 and should take until October to complete. The Census Bureau has several publications that describe the various jobs available and help applicants prepare for employment tests.

What Jesus Taught

Where is happiness found? The average person is asking this profound question every day of his life. The question needs thoughtful answers. The period for a happy life is not unique to our day, but in every generation men have sought happiness. Paintings, writings, and the findings of men in all ages testify to man's desire for happiness. One of the most profound problems which man has sought to solve is the problem of happiness. God said it was not good for man that he should be alone. He made for him a "help mate" (see Genesis 2:18).

Someone was looking for happiness. He tried riches, wisdom, knowledge, wine, women and all that "Measurables" (Eccl. 1:2) but he concluded that it was not the only one that looked for happiness in the wrong place. Look a little farther.

Remember Voltaire, who was a profound student of the most pronounced of people? He declared that the Bible would be destroyed from the face of the earth, if he spent much of his life speaking and writing against God, but this did not make him happy. He wrote: "I wish I had never been born." Lord Byron wrote one looking for happiness in pleasure, but he wrote: "The world, the flesh, and the devil are mine alone." Mr. Jay Gould, an American millionaire, sought happiness in money, but died a miserable man. Alexander the Great sought happiness in conquest, but he was able to conquer the known world of his day, but history records him weeping in his tent because there were no more worlds to conquer.

Where then, is happiness found? Someone finally discovered that the only thing that counts is to know God and keep his commandments, for this is the whole duty of man." (Eccl. 12:13) The Bible declares that only those who have found faith, obedience, forgiveness, love and hope in Christ will find true happiness. A lesson we learned is that contentment rests not on outward circumstances, but upon the inner resources of strength in a man's soul. Happiness is a by-product of character, and that's what Jesus taught.
