SPORTS EXTRA!

End to End
By Hank Bond

They'll toss it up for the final times

This Saturday and Sunday a large number of young men and ladies will gather in the Nicholas County High School gymnasium for the semi-finals and finals of the 1990 Little League tournament.

It's no secret these young people have worked long and hard to reach this level of the tournament, but doesn't diminish the work put forth by teams eliminated in the earlier rounds.

On 10 or more occasions these teams grouped together on a Saturday or Sunday to put their basketball fortunes on the basketball court in an effort to achieve.

This achievement isn't always measured by winning or losing but in the team effort put forth. Working together is a trait which can't be down played.

It's not simply playing the game, but the practice, planning and effort required to be part of a team, which play important parts of success.

This, too, is true for the cheerleaders involved in supporting these teams.

It takes practice to get routines in place, and a concentrated effort to do it as close to right every time as possible.

I hope you will take the time to get out to Nicholas County High School this Saturday and Sunday. There's a schedule of the games included with the Little League Results in SPORTS EXTRA.

These young people deserve your support and I believe you'll enjoy what you see.

This type of preparation will allow these young men and young ladies to play important roles in society. There's no doubt that successful adults can either go one-on-one and drive to the basket or pass off on the fast break and go for the team win.

Certainly, there should be a large amount of recognition given to the men and women involved in coaching these teams, and to the families of these same players and coaches who rearrange lives to make certain they're at the gym on time.

This setting, Little League, offers an untold number of young people across America an opportunity to participate. Without these types of programs in all sports – and those dedicated to make them successful a lot of talent would go unseen and undeveloped.

I congratulate these young people and wish each team good luck this weekend.

Remember there are not nearly as many losers in this world as there are those who simply just won't try.
