5-Year-Old Kentuckian Writes Life Story

This story has many happy endings.
That's because 5-year-olds are writing all kinds of stories in Kentucky classrooms where teachers are teaching with IBM's Writing to Read program.
It is a self-paced interactive program that teaches kindergartners and first graders how to write anything they can say and read anything they can write.
And once students
learn to write, IBM's Primary Editor Plus program gives them a simple and fun way to analyze their writing and find out what they did well on.
IBM makes computer
programs for students
from kindergarten
through high school.
In Kentucky,
and the nation,
we're working to help teachers teach
and students learn.
