Lady Jacket cheerleaders return after 5 years

By Karen Hood
The Carlisle Mercury Staff
"I'll be a cheerleader and Kay Earlywine has started something that hasn't been done in Nicholas County for five years.

They are the sponsors for the Nicholas County Lady Jacket cheerleading squad. Smoot said Greg Boyd, Nicholas County High School Principal, asked her if she would be interested in starting another squad for the Lady Jacket.

Smoot agreed to it and asked Kay Earlywine to join her. Both have daughters who play varsity basketball.

From October 3rd to November 12th, they raised over $1,000. We felt like it was record setting," Smoot said. She hopes the new uniforms will be in before the season gets too far underway.

After they were elected, the girls worked extension stands and washed windshields to raise money for new uniforms.

Smoot when the decision to have a squad was final, tryouts were set for the end of September. She said 30 girls in the eighth grade and high school signed up and nine were chosen for the squad. The reason for the number, Smoot said, was because there were nine uniforms from the squad of five years ago.

That makes cheerleading and easier job, according to their sponsors. The sponsors said one interesting aspect of the squad is Margie Segal, a Spanish foreign exchange student.

Smoot said, "We just love the way she says 'Go Big Blue.' She's doing great." Smoot, a former Nicholas County varsity cheerleader, said, "We want to put fun back into cheerleading and take out the emphasis on gymnastics at this level." Earlywine was not a cheerleader but did attend Nicholas County and is the instructor.
