Court makes budget cuts...

 strain on the budget. The court also cut the courthouse maintenance budget in half, leaving $5000 in the fund. Year had proposed raising the county's occupational tax by 50 percent or creating taxing districts for the Nicholas County Ambulance Service, Nicholas County Extension Office, or a Solid Waste Taxing District. The budget cuts allowed funding for basic services, but several groups petitioning the court were denied budget appropriations for the coming year. The Carlisle / Nicholas County Industrial Authority, the Carlisle / Nicholas County Tourism, Inc., the Nicholas County Ministerial Association, and the Community Action Council were all denied their bid for funding. In other business, the court voted to accept an easement on the property of Mr. and Mrs. Grimes Russell while the county works on Milltown Point Road. The court's next meeting will be on Tuesday June 11 at 9 a.m.

 residents is to build a sewage treatment facility at the lake. Carlisle City Sewer Superintendent told the council that the move would bring the new sewage plant up to 85 percent capacity. Mayor Frankie Hughes told the firm Howard K. Bell could contact G.E.W., the city's engineering firm, for a report on the effects of the residents hooking on to the treatment facility. The report will be at the expense of Howard K. Bell. The council will make a decision after the report has been made.

Council approves new budget

 employees that many who work at the plants do not have city stickers on their vehicles. Jockey is in the Carlisle city limits.
 - agreed to buy a FAX machine for the city office.
 - will look into buying a television and video cassette recorder for watching instructional tapes.
 - paid the city's bills.
 - recognized all city employees for outstanding job performance.
