Blood drive to be held Nov. 4 A lot of changes take place in the fall. School begins, cooler weather sets in, and leaves turn to colorful shades. While these changes can be good, others are not. For example, a critical change in the blood supply can mean the difference between life and death for a patient. At Central Kentucky blood center, 200 pints of blood are needed every day to maintain a safe and adequate blood supply. Volunteer blood donors are the source of this lifesaving substance. Hospitals and patients depend on this supply.
