

Hamon has vast interest outside medicine

Carlisle — If you don't find Allen J. Hamon, M.D. busy with patients in his office, it's quite possible you may find him on the 900 acres of land he farms, with his 160 head of Angus cattle, or maybe with his three year old walking horse. Hamon grew up on a farm in Grayson, Carter County, where he worked with his dad to earn extra money. "When I was young my parents were both school teachers, they instilled in me the importance of a good education. I think their influence played a major role in my decision to attend college. I decided to become a doctor because doctors had always made a positive impression on me.

As I got older my father stopped teaching and started working as a rural letter carrier in addition to running a farm, he said. After high school, Hamon left Carter County to attend Eastern Kentucky University where he received a B.S. in Chemistry and Biology. He graduated and said, "While I was at EKU I met my future wife, Letitia Ann Miller. Upon graduation he enrolled in medical school at the University of Kentucky. "After medical school, Letitia and I were married. We moved to Savannah, Georgia where I did my internship at Chatham County Memorial.

While we were living in Georgia, I was drafted into the armed forces. They notified me three weeks before I had to go in service not to come, Hamon said. Although living close to Tyne Beach, Georgia with his vast climate, they both wanted to come back and reside in Kentucky.

"When we came back to Kentucky it was very spring, town in the area and talking with the doctors. The two doctors here in Carlisle at that time were Dr. Jack Morford and Dr. Wendell Kinglesher. They said that the town could use another doctor. I started my practice in July of 1989, and I have a couple employees that have been with me almost that long. Since my wife was pregnant with our first child she stayed with her family in Cynthiana for the first month so I commuted back and forth to work," he explained.

"My wife and I have four children now. Cindy, 22 years old, Letitia, 19 years old, Mark, 16 years old, and Jan, 14 years old," he said with a proud tone obvious in his voice. Helping people isn't the only way Hamon likes to spend his time.

"I've always been an avid music lover, particularly Bluegrass. I played a saxophone when I was in high school and I've never stopped enjoying music since then. My favorite is string instruments, especially the guitar and the banjo, but since I injured my hand it's slowed down. We had only one party for our 20th anniversary. Hamon is an advisor for Farm Credit Services and sits on the Board of Directors for Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Services. He also keeps up with the latest developments in modern medicine by being a member of the Academy of Family Physicians.

"When you come involved with this organization you must complete 20 hours of training each year to remain a member, and keeping up with the times is important, he said. He showed a distinctive twinkle in his eyes and said, "My greatest reward in life is being able to help someone in need by giving them a more productive life and trying to understand as well as relate to their problems."

"He's had to work hard and long hours but he's always been interested in people and enjoys working with them. There have been a few times that he wasn't able to be at home. But it's been a good life and I know if it weren't he wouldn't change a thing," his wife, Letitia Hamon said.

Multi-Age Program begins

By Melissa Hall

Carlisle — The Nicholas County Elementary School will be doing a few things quite a bit different this year.

According to the Kentucky Education Reform Act House Bill 960, by next year, 1992-93, it will be mandatory that all Kentucky's school systems have a primary education program.

Grades K-3 will be combined into one grade and those individual grade levels will be abolished. Nicholas County will be introducing a Multi-Age Pilot Program this year. This will make the transition easier next year when all students must be involved.

This year there still will be two first grade classes, two second grade classes and three third grade classes in addition to the Multi-Age Pilot Program.

Five elementary teachers have been hired to participate in the new program. They are: Brenda Lawrence, Diana Lane, Carol Hammoss, Elaine Broderick and Charlene Dillon.

They will still have to remain in their present classrooms. "If nothing changes and the program opens K-3 next year, they will have to remain in the program for four years and work on their capable level, the teachers said. Some teachers will have to receive additional certification to teach in the Primary Education Program.

"Coordinating the pilot program will take a lot of work but we're very excited about getting started," Dillon said. "We need the parents to work with us so we wanted their permission to enroll their child in the pilot program," Hammoss said.

The teachers have attended several conferences and in-services to gain additional insight as to what to set up the program. "So far we've had good responses from the parents. A meeting was held for the parents on August 19, where we addressed their problems and concerns," Lane said. "Most were concerned

Jolly becomes another

Carlisle — Ashley Jolly, five years old, of Caney Run Road became a mother on Wednesday August 28.

She took over complete responsibility and care of more than 20 newborn turtles. Her grandfather had been out hunting and came home with a pregnant turtle. Jolly wanted to know if she could take care of the turtles and make them hatch.

Her grandfather said if you bury them down in the dirt somewhere they just might hatch. So, Ashley buried the eggs at a corner section of their garden around the first part of June and waited.

Her long wait ended last week and to look at Ashley's proud face, the wait was worth it.

"The students will be involved in activities such as reading and writing, but in addition to these they will also be placed in cooperative learning groups. In these groups they will all take part in projects such as writing and performing play. Each student will contribute what he or she is capable of," Broderick said. "Accelerated students will be able to move on and those students who need more individual attention will be able to receive it.

This will do a lot for the students self-esteem because they won't feel like failures if they fall behind. Even if some students move ahead quicker than others, they will still have to remain in their present classrooms. "If nothing changes and the program opens K-3 next year, they will have to remain in the program for four years and work on their capable level, the teachers said. Bluejackets roll past Powell in opening game

By Josh Shepherd of the Carlsle Mercury Staff

Carlisle — The Bluejackets rolled past the Powell County Pirates in their opening game on Friday night. The Bluejackets scored 45 points while the Pirates scored 14.

Although the defense was fired up after the early score, the Pirates continued to hold their own on the ground with Travis Sims the only Jackets defensive lineman to contain their offensive advance to one yard.

Kevin Nicholas County Superintendent Cebrat Gilbert was unimpressed, despite having scored as Chris Compton took the hand off and sailed to the end zone. Conner's run for the two point conversion was unexecuted, leaving the Jackets ahead by the end of the quarter, 14-0.

At the top of the second quarter, a fumble in the backfield cost the Jackets another shot as Chris Compton took the hand off and sailed to the end zone. Conner's run for the two point conversion was unexecuted, leaving the Jackets ahead by the end of the quarter, 14-0.

However, ineptness finally caught up to the Pirates. A misplayed punt by the Pirates fell on the field giving the Jackets excellent field position for their next score. At 3rd and five, Raymond Brown took a short pass to the five yard line before Randall was able to bring him down.

At the next run, however, Raymond pounded through the middle for another Jackets score extending its crunch of the lead to 21-0.

Another possible score from the Pirates was blocked by the Bluejackets' defense. The Pirates' defense blocked the ball straight into Brown's hands. An attempted on-side kick from the Pirates failed when Jerry Watkins fell on the ball giving the Jackets excellent field position for their next score. At 3rd and five, Raymond Brown took a short pass to the five yard line before Randall was able to bring him down.

At the top of the fourth Shane Kenney took the ball across the goal line to make the score 38-0. The extra point run made it through giving the Jackets and even 40 points for the evening. Nicholas County had more chances to increase its lead beyond the forty point mark. Quarterback Mike French took the ball on a play that sent him into the 10:17 mark and it ended with a score with 5:04 left in the third. The Jackets, on the other hand, were quick to send players to the end zone. At 13:37 in the third, Raymond Brown again scatted the Pirates' sideline for a Jackets score.

With his score, the Jackets stood with a dominating 39-0 lead. The highlight of the evening game with 14 seconds left to go in the first half. Passing across field to Kevin Morris, Daniel Brown headed down field to receive Brown's pass. As the ball sailed apparently out of Brown's reach, Pirates defensive back deflected the ball straight into Brown's hands.  "When you're outdoors near power lines, or using electricity in your home, please keep electrical safety in mind."
 Safety is the most important part of my job. Of course, when you work with "live" power lines, it has to be.
 Working with electricity has given me a healthy respect for the power of electricity—and everyone should have the same respect. It could save your life.
