Smith named editor of Daily Mail James C. Smith, managing editor of the Daily Mail since 1986, has been appointed to the new position of manager, editorial projects, for Thomson Newspaper Corporation.

The appointment was effective February 10. Smith, 32, is working on strategic editorial planning and development of new products. He reported to Hunter George, vice president and director, editorial development, and serves as a consultant to Ralph Martin, vice president and chief operating officer at the company's Metro Division. He is assisting in recruitment and development of editors for the company. Thomson Newspapers publishes 162 daily newspapers and 70 non-dailies in the United States and Canada. Smith is based in Des Plaines, Illinois, headquarters of Thomson's U.S. operations.

As managing editor of the Daily Mail, Smith has redesigned the newspaper's staff in 1982 and worked as a copy editor, news editor and city editor.

A native of central Kentucky, he served as editor of the weekly Courier Mercury in Kentucky prior to joining the Daily Mail. He is a magna cum laude graduate of Marshall University.

At the Daily Mail, Smith served as chairman of the committee that redesigned the newspaper in 1987. He is a member of the Associated Press Managing Editor's Association and serves on its Journalism Education Committee. He is chairman of the Journalism Education Committee of the West Virginia Press Association and has served on the visiting faculty at the Frontier Institute for Media Studies in St. Petersburg, Florida.

"He has proven himself to be a top-flight editor," said Daily Mail publisher, Terry Harnes. "Over his stepping into a leadership role one of the largest newspaper corporations in the world."

"This is a great job, and a tremendous opportunity for Jim," said Daily Mail Editor David Greenfield. "Essentially, he will be on the leading edge of developing new editorial products for all of Thomson's North American newspapers. He is a talented and imaginative newspaper editor, and while we'll miss him, I think this is an implied move by Thomson. In my confident I do well."

Smith and his wife, Tammy Mandeville Smith, have three sons, Adam, 8, Eric, 6 and Patrick, 1. He is the son of Donald and Cordelia Smith of Carlisle.

There will be a Fox Hunt at the Clay Farm Saturday, February 15 at 7:30 a.m. Bar-goon at noon at that spot, everyone welcome.

Bradley Hollar

Hollar receives letter from Bush President Bush sent the following letter, along with an autographed picture of himself to Bradley.

Your Bradley: Mrs. Bush and I were delighted of your interest in reading. It is to us that you have said yes to a bright future.

Reading is a magical and worthwhile activity. It will stir your imagination, add to your knowledge and expand your capabilities. It can take you from where you are right now to anywhere you want to go.

Mrs. Bush and I enjoy reading a variety of books - too many to single out any favorites. We believe that reading helps us to be the best that we can be.

Good luck to you in the future and happy reading!

Bradley is the son of Rudy Hollar of Flemingsburg and Carolyn Hollar of 130 Oriole Street.
