CARLISLE — When Nicholas County natives Kevin and Susanne Watkins, returned to their Carlisle homes, that is when they realized the rest of the world was waiting for their Carlisle home. But they have brought a same's description, is like a small dash of their Nicholas County life and taken it to Carlisle, once they had established a practice in home.

Kevin Watkins, optician, busily sets and re-sets the cut of a pair of lenses which he will then polish and set in a pair of frames. The former machinist has found a new life and career during the notorious recession. Though his experience with machinery gave him a leg up in the business, optical laboratories were still going a new thing for him. He learned fast and well.
