people friendly and receptive to them. They also considered that since the product they intend to market is very specialized, and since there are no other delivery services nearby, the demand exists for pizza delivery to be popular, and profitable, hopefully, enterprise.

The Sexton's are originally from Portsmouth, Ohio, but the wealth of their experience in the restaurant business comes mainly from Gary Jr., who said he has worked in nearly every major pizza chain starting out in the work world.

He has worked with Dominos, Pizza Hut, and Little Caesar's pizza chains and feels he has the experience to produce a "superior product."

The primary one, Gary Sexton Jr. said, was the people. From several visits throughout the early months of this year, they said they found with their brother-in-law in Smithville, Tennessee. "We worked in Tennessee for several months and the business was proving profitable. If you take pride in (table, food, service and staff) you succeed," Sexton said.

Hopefully, they said, the business will take off. They are aware business in small communities demand "fika," but, Gary Jr. said, they won't quit, they will work for a few months.

"All we're going to try to do right now is make the best pizzas and Italian sandwiches that we can. If people like how we do things and business is strong, we hope to settle here and become part of the community," David Sexton said.

TRACT 1

This c. 1886-87 three story brick home at the corner of Elm & West Main Streets is on the National Register of Historic Homes and was built by Dr. Nelson McNew as a residence and office. In later years, it became known as the Henderson Hotel, a well known Carlisle Boarding House. This historic home offers many potential uses, and is situated on a commercial lot, app. 80' x 68'.
