Jockey International

Presents
1992 Distinguished Service Awards

Jockey International, Inc. of Carlisle presented the Distinguished Service Award to employees at the Carlisle Sewing and Knitting Plants on Thursday, August 27 with refreshments for all employees and a program in each plant.

Donna Wolf Steigerwald, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Jockey International, Inc., was unable to attend, but gave the presentations of the "Jockey Distinguished Service Award" to William Tolliver of the Carlisle Sewing Plant and Joyce Booth of the Knitting Plant via telephone.

Other Jockey International staff on hand during this presentation included P.E. Sebastian, president of Jockey International, Inc., Fred Holmes, senior vice president of manufacturing of Jockey International, Inc., Don Haney, vice president of Kentucky operations, Bascom Sorrell, plant manager of the Carlisle Knitting Plant, and Tim Brown, plant manager of the Carlisle Plant.

The "Jockey Distinguished Service Award" is the most prestigious award a company employee may receive. The award is given in recognition for an individual's significant contribution in perpetuating the Jockey "ideal" reflecting the best in a person's commitment to loyalty, integrity and service and the dedication with which one conducts their daily lives. All employees, salaried and hourly (not including division vice presidents) are eligible for this award. Employees in each location nominated candidates for this year's recipients.

Congratulations!

William Tolliver began his career with the Jockey family over 25 years ago, was named recipient of the Distinguished Service Award for Jockey Sewing in ceremonies held August 27. His excellent attendance record shows what a true and loyal Jockey person he is.

He lives a lifestyle of caring and sharing and is truly a person that has achieved the Jockey "ideal," a goal that all of us should strive for. He also enjoys camping, fishing, furniture repair and spending time with his children and grandchildren. His fellow employees describe him as a special person who makes this world, this community and this company a better place by his hard-working, enthusiastic, upbeat commitment to family, church, community and Jockey.

He is an active board member of the Moorefield Methodist Church. He has a great love for the sport of basketball. When the season begins, you will find him at Rugby Arena cheering on the University of Kentucky Wildcats. He is proudly their most devoted fan.

During the years William has worked for Jockey, his time has been spent shipping goods out the doors to our customers. He is a dedicated Jockey employee and his devotion to his church, family and work truly qualifies him for the highest honor at Jockey. His other family members have a total of 106 years of service with Jockey, working for Jockey is certainly a family affair for the Tollivers.

William is married to Barbara and they are the proud parents of three children: Tony, Gabi and Ivy and also the proud grandparents of two wonderful grandchildren: Tyler and Raymond.

Joyce Booth, a 12 year employee of Jockey Knitting, who has had perfect attendance for two of those years and for nine out of the other 10 years, she has had less than eight hours of absences each year, received the Distinguished Service Award, during ceremonies, August 27. Her co-workers will tell you she always has a smile and good word for everyone. This wonderful person takes a lot of pride in her job and her ability to do her best work. She is a member of the East Union Christian Church.

On many Sunday afternoons, there are usually 20 to 40 boys that come to her house to play football in the backyard. These are boys that consider her a second mom. She is transportation officer, cook and friend to them all. Joyce enjoys working with children and does not hesitate to help anyone in any way she can at work, at home and at church. She is truly an example that the Jockey Distinguished Service Award stands for.

This year's honoree has served as secretary for the Nicholas County Little League Cheerleaders for the last three years. She is also a sponsor a cheerleading squad and has served as an officer for minor league baseball, base ball and title league baseball. No wonder she is admired and respected by her friends and co-workers.

She enjoys scuba diving and has even taught classes in scuba diving. When time permits, she acts as secretary for the Nicholas County Game Warden, who happens to be her husband, Herbert Booth.

She is the kind of person in whom Jockey International and Nicholas County should be proud. Joyce and her husband are the proud parents of one son, Mike.
