MERCURY VAPOURS

by Warren R. Fisher Reprinted from Thursday, September 13, 1973 An article in a printing and lithographing magazine caught our eye: "If you think MICROFILM are new in this world of ours, reflect on the fact that in Chaldea 30 centuries ago, they wrote tablet inscriptions so small to be read by the naked eye, and to decipher them they used think lenses made of quartz... SEXY DUCKS OWNERS Founders created a single piece of type about 8-point size, on the face of which was Multimillimetre John D. reproduced the Lord's Prayer! MackArthur has turned, in Of course nobody could read it with the naked eye or print from it, but it was there."

But once they settled photos, they multiplied, and MackArthur considered that he couldn't get rid of them. "It's a regular melting pot," he said. "And they're the most broad-minded birds you've ever seen. I thought mallards were supposed to be true to one another, but these are their wives. Theoretically-but you see, they're not."

Nicholas County Academic team defeats Bath County in season opener

By Job Shepherd The Nicholas County Academic team defeated Bath County in the season opener of the Limestone League competition Tuesday night with a win over Bath County, 97.5-91.75.

Limestone League Schedule 1992-93 Table with columns for Date, Location, Home/Away, and Score.

with a host of new faces to take over where past champion teams left off and while there are some sizeable shoes to fill, the '92-'93 squad appears prepared to meet the challenge. Out of the written section of the competition, Nicholas County had already built a considerable lead over Bath County.

But, according to head sponsor Kathy Green, the team appears to have a greater balance between the written and loss-up sections of normal competition. That was not always so with past teams. Nicholas County fluctuated between strengths, each year presenting the team a challenge to overcome their weakness in the other area.
