CARLISLE NATIVE ALLEN WAUGH TO STAR IN "THE MUSIC MAN" THIS FRIDAY

By Hebeccen Mullins Of The Carlisle Mercury Staff CARLISLE - Reverend Allen Waugh was reporting for Cynthia's WFTN when the Lady Jackets won the Sweet 16. It was a landmark occasion for both the Nicholas County girls' team and event.

The Kentuckians Barbershop Chorus

Waugh said he expects a large turnout at this year's show. He hopes the audience size will be as impressive as it was at the church's 1991 production of "The Music Man" at the Lexington Opera House.

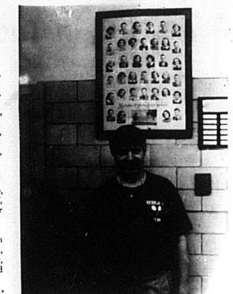

"The Music Man" musical, made famous through the film starring Robert Preston, Shirley Jones and Ron Howard, formerly known as "Opa" in "The Andy Griffith Show," features such songs as "You've Got Trouble Right Here in River City," sung by Waugh and the Kentuckians Chorus.

The production seen by many throughout the film stars in the film went see the same thing in the Cynthia's performance, Waugh said. The Kentuckians Chorus and the theatrical association will choose only some music and dialogue from the original screenplay.

Waugh will accompany the ladies, with whom he engages in many productions under the name of The Woodford County Theatrical Association. The audience will also appreciate the sound of two regional senior quartet choruses, The Goldenaires and The Barrens, he said. The groups will provide toned four-part, barbershop-quartet harmony who, with Waugh in its ranks, will be performing several musical selections from the original play. The play will be presented at the Harrison County High School auditorium on April 16. The Harrison County Educational Development Foundation is sponsoring the production.

For tickets, call Betty Barton at 249-1519

NCHS student Michael Fryman won first place with his art entry in the Special Olympians regional art contest February 13. His entry will now go to the Summer Games art contest at WKU June 4, 5 and 6.

Health dept. can help with pregnancy

Planning to start a family? What are the facts about nutrition for a woman who is pregnant and for her new baby. When a woman becomes pregnant, she brings to her pregnancy all of her life experiences which influence the health of her baby. Mom's food habits effect her nutritional health at the time she becomes pregnant, and those habits are passed on to her children.

Pregnancy changes a woman's body, which in turn changes her need for certain foods. The Nicholas County Health and Department offers family planning, prenatal nutrition, and well child services for pregnant women, infants, and children. For further information call 288-2188.
