Free, reduced meals available to Nicholas County students

By Heather Mathes-Harris
Of The Carlisle Mercury Staff

CARLISLE - According to Martha Sue Taylor, Nicholas County Food Service Director, all students will receive an application and requirement status sheet for free and reduced lunch and breakfast.

"Who qualifies depends on a ratio of number of family members to a set income, these include a number of families who do not qualify for Aid to Families with Dependant Children. These parents really need to take advantage of this program for their children, even if they have not in the past," Taylor said.

Reduced and free lunch is a federally funded program.

"The local school system does not pick up the tab on this, this is federally funded. Many other programs look at how many children qualify for this free and reduced lunch to determine what other programs in which Nicholas County Schools is eligible to participate, so the more the percentage, the better for Nicholas County schools," Taylor said.

All meals served at Nicholas County strictly adhere to the national school meal pattern requirements.

"And our breakfast program, served at the elementary and high school as soon as buses arrive at school, is not just for reduced or free lunch recipients. It has long been a misconception that breakfast is only for those recipients, but student can come in and get a healthy, nutritious breakfast for 50 cents (full price)," Taylor said.

"And research has proven that a child who has eaten a healthy breakfast learns better because their attention span and concentration is longer and better."

Taylor also pointed out school systems have made a concerted effort to eradicate the stigma usually associated with anyone receiving reduced or free breakfast and lunch.

"I know there are some high school students who will not bring back the application because they feel they are discriminated against. We have made a real effort to get rid of this discrimination," Taylor said.

"Each child at the elementary as well as the high school has a coded number, they give their number at the end of the line and pay what amount they are coded for. No one knows what status anyone else is."

If a child or adult employee forgets lunch money, he or she may charge lunch or breakfast.

The charge policy states, "Students and adult employees may charge meals for three days. If these charges are not paid on the fourth day, the building principal will assist in collecting charges."

"We also discourage parents who wish to send lunch with their children. Many times children bring out twinkies, chips or Nabs, and their is simply no need for this when we serve nutritious food," Taylor said.

"And our food has really gotten so good and that has really upped the participation in the program.

"I've got to give all the credit for that to Linda Tedder (manager) at the elementary and Viola Sparks (manager) at the high school and all the cooks. They go out of their way to prepare the meals children will like and still meet federal guidelines."

A salad bar had been installed at the high school and is used everyday, on Wednesdays a specialty bar is offered and on Fridays a potato bar is available.

"Different portions and proportionate pricing is also observed for the lunch meal. The levels split at K-3, 4-8 and 9-12," Taylor said.

"Breakfast and lunch menus are published each week, and we will be glad to take suggestions from parents or students."

Suggestions should be directed at Taylor, or lunch room managers.

"If a child has food allergies or some other medical conditions such as diabetes, food service managers should be made aware of the condition. We are willing and able to work with any parent whose child has any type of medical problem, but we really need to know about it as soon as possible," Taylor said.

The 1993-94 breakfast and lunch prices are as follows:

Paid Breakfast; K-3, 4-8, and 9-12, 50 cents.

Reduced breakfast; all grade levels, 30 cents.

Paid lunch: K-3, 75 cents; 4-8, 85 cents; 9-12, $1.

Reduced lunch: all grade levels, 40 cents.

Adult breakfast for both school employees and visitors is 75 cents.

Lunch for school employees is $1.50 and for visitors and non-school employees is $2.00.

A la carte prices for both schools is: Meat or sandwich, 80¢; vegetable or fruit, 25 cents; milk, 25 cents; bread, 15 cents; dessert, 40 cents; ice cream, 50 cents; drink, 25 cents; pizza, 80 cents; french fries 50 cents; cookie, 20 cents.
