HOSA provides free CPR classes

The KY Tech Harrison County HOSA student organization provided free CPR classes to members of the community on November 11 and 12. The Harrison County HOSA Community Awareness Project for the 1993-94 school year is focusing no Healthy Heart Awareness Education.

The free CPR classes were planned, scheduled and organized by HOSA students. Participants in the class included parents, teachers, friends and relatives of the HOSA students, as well as professional members of the community. Each participant successfully completed the American heart Association Adult Heartsaver course and received completion cards at the end of each class.

Ellie Pribble RN, the HOSA advisor is an American Heart Association CPR Instructor. She was the lead instructor for the class but received valuable assistance throughout the classes from the following HOSA students: Melissa Banfield, Tonya Hermann, Lisa Hutson, Crissy Leonard, Jason May, April McCarty, Crystal Small, Amy Toadvine, Christy Wright, and Terri Lou Wright.

The Harrison County HOSA organization is planning several other activities as a part of their Community Awareness Project including: free blood pressure clinics, visits to the elementary schools, a blood drive, and participating in local heath fairs. For more information on these or other projects, call KY Tech Harrison Center, 234-5286.

"How To Have A Merry Christmas"

One day not long ago, I overheard two ladies talking as they were resting from a frantic day of Christmas shopping. One of them said, "Christmas just isn't what it used to be for me. It isn't 'merry' anymore."

In a way it was surprising to hear such a comment. But after thinking about it, it really isn't that surprising.

Christmas really isn't that "merry" for many people. there will be many families that will struggle to get through Christmas without a precious loved one. For some, the "hustle and bustle" just gets to be overwhelming. For others the financial pressure is very difficult. There will be many who will be very lonely. Others, will fight a battle with depression. For some, Christmas just doesn't mean what it used to.

If you are among those who have become somewhat disillusioned, let me share with you some insights on "How To Have A Merry Christmas." Keep in mind, this is not exhaustive, but it is a start.

First, do your best to KEEP YOUR EXPECTATIONS IN LINE WITH REALITY.

It amazes me that people have very unreal expectations, especially this time of the year. All of our dreams are not going to come true because it is Christmas.

We need to remember that the deep needs of our life are not going to be boxed, wrapped and placed under a tree. It is impossible to wrap love, kindness, forgiveness, understanding, compassion, acceptance, and eternity. These are the attributes of life that are most important.

Second, do your best to CHERISH THE GIVER ABOVE THE GIFT.

There will be countless gifts given this year that will be exchanged, unappreciated, and thought unnecessary.

In 1967 when I graduated from high school, I received a card from my Grandmother Trumbo, who was a resident of a nursing home. It was a card congratulating me for this important milestone in my life.

In the card was my "graduation gift." It was very crisp one dollar bill. To this day I still have this dollar. It is neatly tucked away in my high school memory book.

It is true that a dollar isn't much, it doesn't go very far and I needed more. But the GIVER of the gift was and is far more important than the gift itself. We need to remember that most of us cannot give priceless gifts, but that all GIVERS are priceless. They are priceless because God created them and gives to each of us the capacity to give.

If you can remember this great truth, you will have a much merrier Christmas.

Third, GIVE YOURSELF TO SOMETHING GREATER THAN YOU ARE.

Try this Christmas to not only give materially, but in such a way that your giving goes beyond yourself.

For example
- Mend a quarrel
- Write a letter
- Renew a friendship
- Express appreciation
- Listen
- Be kind to a stranger
- Make glad the heart of a child
- Do the dishes
- Forgive an enemy
- Smile and Laugh
- Encourage an older person
- Answer softly even if you feel strongly.

See what I mean? These are things that have significance beyond our selfish interests.

One last thing, remember, Christmas is not so much PRESENTS as it is, PRESENCE.

May the PRESENCE of the Christ Child be with you all this Christmas.
