Jail debated...

Continued from Page 1 could accept out-of-county prisoners and juvenile offenders... "These out-of-county prisoners and juveniles could help pay for the larger facility and be more cost efficient than a smaller one. This issue should be studied to see which is the most economical approach if a larger jail would retire the bonds without a tax increase."

FACTS & FIGURES

I was going very slowly down my driveway Tuesday morning, begging trucks to get out of my way... "After four inches of snow fell on the rolling hills of Nicholas County Monday night, I knew I would have to take it slow with my Honda the next day."

This column is, of course, my own opinion, and does not represent views held by Park Communications... "My editor, Hank Bond, and I decided this week to change the heading of this column to 'Commentary'..."
