MCC registration to be held at NCHS August 16

By Heather Mathews/Harris Of The Carlisle Mercury Staff

Registration for off-campus college classes through Mayville Community College (MCC) will be held at Nicholas County High School, Monday, August 16, from 8-7:30 p.m.

For a total listing of these classes, see Page 8 of The Carlisle Mercury.

Paula Hunter, Nicholas County MCC Facilitator and Bruce Florence, MCC Coordinator at the Licking Valley Office, said several new classes will be offered in the Licking Valley area this fall.

Three classes, Applied Math, English 101 and General Psychology will be day classes, and English available in Nicholas County and held at the high school.

Along with these three classes offered here in Nicholas County, there will be a total of 58 other classes taught.

In Harrison County and available for the students participating in the extended campus program in this area, including Nicholas County.

Two new literature classes, English 261, Survey of Western Literature, taught by William Caywood on Thursday evening, and English 270, The Old Testament as Literature, taught by Sue Lake on Monday evening will be offered.

For more general classes that everyone must have in any discipline they would like to pursue, it all depends upon what everyone is most interested in taking, Florence said.

"In answer to several requests, a calculus class will be offered. This class, Math 123, is the Elementary Calculus class required in many programs at the University of Kentucky," Florence said.

In cooperation with Stu Lake on Monday evening will be offered.

Hunter, facilitator of the Mayville Community College and then went on to Mansfield to get my degree in Elementary Education.

"We were not closed by the government. We knew we would be closing in December anyway and since our insurance is $1,300 in fee October 1.

Heater said. "My duties mainly surround organization," Hunter said.

"We want to offer the classes people want most in the first class offered in this field, more will be available in the future if a vast amount of interest is shown.

The business area have two new classes to offer. These include, Principles of Economics and Principles of Retailing.

For more information on college classes offered locally contact Paula Hunter at 234-7382 or Bruce Florence at 234-9636.

The day care facility was renovated and licensed earlier this month by Bruce Bell.

"Our inspector said we had to post our rates, and keep the medicine in the refrigerator locked up, but other than that we had nothing else wrong."

"We were not closed by the government. We knew we would be closing in December anyway and since our insurance is $1,300 in fee October 1.

Stephanie Duncan, co-owner of Tender Loving Care Day Care center said.

"My husband is self-employed as a farmer. Because we were paid about $8,000 for insurance coverage for our family. We do good business here, but we just cannot have all the fringe benefits which include a retirement plan, when you are self-employed."

"My son is 4 and starts kindergarten soon. I want to have more time to spend with him too," Duncan said.

She said the center August 20 gets, the summer staff, children and parents alike become.

"Many of these kids were raised here and it will be sad for them to leave. A lot of them will be going to the Sunshine Club at the Family Resource Center which is open after school and over the noon hours."

The business is also closing because of a lack of benefits associated with self-employment.
