We've learned to handle all kinds of pressure.

Sure, we check a lot of blood pressures, but we treat a lot more serious problems as well. Our Emergency Room is as modern and capable as any in the region. We are staffed 24 hours a day to handle any emergency — close to home when it really counts. Over the years, we've seen just about every kind of medical emergency there is. In fact, our skilled professionals treat thousands of emergencies every year — right here in Bourbon County. Bourbon General might not be the biggest hospital around, but when it comes to providing quality Emergency Services, we think we're just the right size.

For more information on Bourbon General Hospital, call 587-3600.

Nicholas students meet with vice-president

By Heather Mathes-Harris
LEXINGTON — Several students from Nicholas County High School met with Vice President Albert Gore, Jr. on Tuesday, June 1 at the KET Star Channel 5 studios in Lexington for a wide-ranging discussion on the most important issues facing students today.

Nicholas County joined students from four other Kentucky high schools including, Rensselaer High School in Greenup County, Simon Kenton High School in Kenton County, Fleming High School in Letcher County and Henry Clay High School in Fayette County.

Students participated in an interactive forum which was moderated by KET Star Channel 5's news anchor, Steve Hays.

"We thought it was great we got to talk to the Vice President personally," said Aaron Jodge, now an alumni of NCHS added, "I wanted to go because I felt the opportunity to meet someone who aids the president in making decisions for our country is not one very many people get to experience in their lifetime."

"And I was impressed with the way he answered our questions, he made us think."

"When one girl from another county asked him about abortion pertaining to abortion he answered her with another question saying, 'Do you think the government should be able to dictate what you personally do with your body?'

I think that more than adequately answered her question," Jodge said.

Gore, who is heading a six-month study of ways to improve efficiency at all levels of government, was visiting KET to get a first hand look at the KET Star Channel 5 distance learning system which has been nationally recognized for its innovativeness and efficiency.

"I have been very impressed by this system," said the Vice President.

"I can see why it has been such a success for KET and for the students who have been able to take advantage of it."

KET developed the KET Star Channel 5 satellite system in 1989 in an effort to improve the educational opportunities of Kentucky students.

The system is used daily to deliver six advanced courses taught by some of Kentucky's best teachers to students in various states felt about issues ranging from college funding to the environment.

He also answered questions from students by telephone.

"We are honored that the vice president of the United States considers KET and Kentucky to be a model for good government and technology can effectively improve the lives of citizens," KET Executive Director Virginia G. Fox said.

Portions of this article were taken from news releases on the subject from the public information office of KET.
