CARRISLE: Cliff Vice, agency manager of Kentucky Farm Bureau Insurance in Carlisle, has been recognized for his thirty years of service to Farm Bureau receiving the Milestone Award.

Vice, a member of the Board of Directors of the First National Bank and past chairman of the Nicholas County Hospital, received the 1991 Businessman of the Year from the Carlisle-Nicholas County Chamber of Commerce.

“I am honored to be recognized for my thirty years of service to Farm Bureau Insurance in Carlisle, one of 120 offices in March, 1993.”

Advice for that important job interview

Graduations, summer vacation, and promotion possibilities sent many Kentuckians looking for new jobs this summer.

“Most employers decide if they are not going to hire you within the first thirty seconds of an interview,” said Smith. “First impressions are critical.”

Don't believe these "termite myths". They can cost you thousands of dollars.

MYTH: Termites can only attack a home if there is wood in contact with the ground.
MYTH: If you've never used a termite swarms, you've got nothing to worry about.
