ball away from Denkins, although her sizable match, Dorothy Boyers, did challenge her at the basket.

Despite Boyers' pressure and that of other key Harrison players including Susan Murphy and Whitney Allison, Denkins kept her strength.

In the middle of the first, she scored a hit with Murphy and Allison right beside her.

The rebound went to Nicholas County, and a long pass to Hatton brought the team a three-pointer. The score at 3:30 in the first was 5-0.

With a little less than two minutes left in the first, Smoot made a steal and passed off to Schanding for a layup hit. The Lady Jackets led 13-1 at the end of the first.

A series of free-throw points by Nicholas County and some great shot selection had the team leading 25-9 at the end of the second quarter.

At 6:48 in the third, Hatton penetrated and drove up to the basket to lay one in for two. She had eight points at this point in the game.

She fouled Allison and Filly Noelle Whitaker soon after her score, giving the ball to Harrison County.

Boyers took a rebound and made a two-pointer to bring the Fillies up closer to Nicholas' 27-13 lead.

At 4:00 in the third, Renee Linville passed the ball long to Hatton, who cut off Filly Terri Brunker at the baseline.

Denkins stole the ball away from Brunker and passed it to Linville, who scored a two for Nicholas to give the team a 29-16 lead.

Linville had the ball taken away as she dribbled into the Fillies' zone, but Smoot retrieved it and was fouled by Filly Mary Beth Muntz.

At the end of the third, Elizabeth Schanding passed the ball over to Linville, with both trying to get the ball inside to Denkins.

Denkins got the ball at :45, and went over Boyers to score two points for a 31-18 lead.

The final point scored in third was by Smoot, who scored one from the free-throw line after being fouled by Muntz.

The fourth quarter began with Hatton getting the ball inside to Denkins who scored two in the paint. Denkins had 13 points at this time in the game.

At 6:15 in the fourth, a charging foul was called on Smoot for an action against Whitney Allison.

The Lady Jackets had their turn at the line, however, at 5:46 as Linville made two-of-two at the stripe. The Jackets led, 35-23.

Schanding took the rebound and got the ball in for two points at 5:18.

At 4:30, Schanding was back on Whitaker with strong defense. She stole the ball from Whitaker and made a long pass to Smoot, who was fouled at 4:16.

Smoot came away from the charity stripe with one-of-two points for a 39-25 Lady Jackets lead.

Hatton was fouled at 2:49 and went to the line to shoot one and a bonus. She came away with one point.

Denkins took the rebound, and struggled with Murphy for the ball on the floor. The ball went to Nicholas County.

Smoot was fouled at 1:44, making one-of-two from the line.

Denkins hit another two-pointer in the paint at 1:14 to bring the lead to 43-35.

The last point in the game was scored by Hatton from the line. Murphy had fouled her at :25.

No further two-pointers were made on the Nicholas side since Denkins hit her two at 1:14.

Scoring and stats: Christie Hatton, 11 points, seven rebounds, two assists, one steal; Nikki Smoot, nine points, two rebounds, three steals, six assists; Kim Denkins, 15 points, 13 rebounds, one steal, one assist; Renee Linville, six points, four rebounds, one steal, one assist; Elizabeth Schanding, five points, four rebounds, one steal, six assists.

Correction

The technical foul reported as being called on Harrison County Head Coach Larry Allison in last week's story on the Harrison/Nicholas game in the district tourney was called on another official on the Harrison County bench.

Lady Jackets destroy Lady Cardinals

By Rebecca Mullins
Of The Carlisle Mercury Staff

WINCHESTER - The Lady Jackets proceeded to the finals of the 10th Region Tournament Monday night with a win over the George Rogers Clark Lady Cardinals in Winchester.

The Lady Jackets record is now 32-2.

Nicholas County didn't lead over the Lady Cardinals by as wide a margin as teams played in the district tourney and the regular season however. The final score of the second game of the semifinals was 42-27.

The 15-point winning margin was only a seven-point margin until :46 in the fourth, before the Lady Cardinals began fouled five Lady Jackets players and nine free-throw points were gained on Nicholas' side.

The fan support was also more equalized between the two teams than it has been in other games. The George Rogers Clark (GRC) fans and Nicholas fans both came in large numbers to cheer on their team.

The Cardinals had a big, fuzzy red Cardinal mascot bouncing around the sidelines for added flair. Nicholas had its own mascot this time, too; Betty Berry dressed as a Bluejacket in glittering blue wings and bluish-paint on her cheeks.

The game was close throughout. Both teams seemed to have good shot selection and defense. The Lady Jackets appeared to be challenged in the match, although the Lady Cards never got the lead.

In the first five minutes of play of the game, Kim Denkins made eight points. At 5:16 in the second, she took her own rebound and nailed one in the paint to bring the Jackets to a 15-9 lead.

The lead narrowed to 15-13 at 3:05 when GRC's Beck laid one in for two.

Following Beck's move, Denkins hit two more; one at 1:04 and then made two with a short jumper at the buzzer. The score at the end of the second was 19-13.

In the third quarter, Christie Hatton hit two in the paint at 6:40 to bring the tally up to 21-13. Then Denkins hit another two-pointer at 4:03, struggling against the three-woman defense of the Lady Cardinals.

Head Coach Barbara Kenney said that GRC was a tough team to beat, and emotions did run high toward the end, but the Lady Jackets kept their cool and did extremely well, especially at the line.

"We stayed with our game plan," Kenney said. "Kim did an excellent job. She had a triple-double.

"When [GRC] went to the point of fouling us to get the ball back to score, we were remarkable. We were 18 for 19 in the fourth quarter."

It was obviously difficult for GRC to lose the game, especially on its home court.

"GRC hasn't been beaten on that floor in several years," Kenney said.

"I thought someone was going to get hurt. We knew they would try to slow the ball down. They don't make mistakes."

Tara George, who Kenney complimented on her skill in the game, came into play at 3:14 in the third. She scored two points in the game when it was needed most; at 4:30 in the fourth with the Lady Jackets leading by only five points (24-19).

A series of rebounds and steals were made by both teams at the middle of the third.

Renee Linville lost the ball to Lady Card Atkinson, who stole the ball and made a hit at the beginning of the fourth. Nikki Smoot then stole the ball and had it stolen by GRC's Vaughn.

Vaughn tried for a layup, missed and Denkins took the rebound. It was following that rebound George scored her two-pointer at 4:30.

GRC began desperately trying to hit threes to catch up to the Lady Jackets toward the end of the fourth, which is when the fouling of Nicholas began.

At 2:09, Smoot scored two from the line. She scored two more from the line at 1:12. Then, at 1:02, Christie Hatton scored one and a bonus from the charity stripe.

With :46 remaining in the game, Smoot was fouled again at scored one and a bonus.

An intentional foul was called on the GRC bench at :36 when a player wrapped her arms around Denkins. Four more points were scored from the free-throw line by Hatton before the end of the game.

Scoring and stats: Christie Hatton, 10 points, four rebounds, four assists; Kim Denkins, 19 points, 14 rebounds, six steals, two assists, 7 blocks; Nikki Smoot, 11 points, two rebounds, one steal; Elizabeth Schanding, one steal, three assists; Renee Linville, three points, one rebound, one assist; Tara George, two points.

Farm fatalities up for 1992

Thirty-five Kentuckians died in farming accidents last year, a 16 percent increase over the 1991 total of 30 fatalities, according to a statewide farm fatality survey.

Tractor accidents accounted for 25 of the deaths, according to Joe Claxon, safety director of Kentucky Farm Bureau who serves as survey coordinator. In all, farm machinery was involved in all but four of the recorded farm fatalities.

Despite last year's increased death toll, Claxon pointed out that 1992 was the second safest year on Kentucky farms in the past decade. During the period 1983-92, an average of 43 deaths have been tabulated annually. The 58 fatalities in 1984 was the decade's worst result while last year's 30 deaths marked the lowest figure.

A trend toward older victims was evident in the 1992 results, Claxon noted. Fourteen of the 35 victims were 65 years of age or older, compared to nine in that age group the year before.

Showing reduced numbers was the under-25 age class, which dropped from eight fatalities in '91 to two last year. But the mid-range classification, ages 25-44, surged from one in '91 to eight last year.

Victims ranged in age from an 89-year old tractor accident casualty to a 4-year-old who drowned.

August and October were the most dangerous months of the year, when seven and six deaths respectively were recorded. February was the safest with no listed fatalities, followed by June and December with one death each.

Six Kentucky counties registered two farm fatalities during the year, Adair, Franklin, Henry, Owen, Pulaski, and Shelby.
