CARLETON - Last Friday Mrs. Gilbert's Nicholas County High Childcare classes celebrated Playschool Graduation.

Childcare classes study the characteristics of preschool age children. Regina Gaunce, a student during Gilbert's fifth period class described the classes curriculum.

"After breaking the class up into smaller groups we planned activities centering on the theme for that week. Some of those themes included broad-based ones like colors, shapes, beaches and got as specific as general safety and community helpers.

Said Gaunce, "During the community helper unit we had Dick Garrett (Nicholas County Jail) come fifth period and bring his handcuffs and let the children avoid how he helped the community by being jailer."

Students were also required to observe the playschool class.

"We had four observations to do and each time we picked a different child," remarked

Census rounds up reports

A drive to round up reports that have not been returned by farmers and ranchers in the 1992 Census of Agriculture has been started by the U.S. Bureau of the Census.

According to George Pierce, Assistant Chief of the Census Bureau's Agriculture Division, "the completeness and accuracy of the census depends on each individual filling out the census report form." Just as important, he says, is the time element; a true picture of the Nation's agricultural industry cannot be presented until the forms are returned.

Agricultural producers received their forms last December. Most have completed and returned them.

The census is the only source of comprehensive, consistent agricultural data for each county in the Nation. It is the basis for major decisions by farmer organizations, marketing associations, cooperative, Congress, the U.S. Department of Agriculture, and Federal and state agencies. The data also are used widely by farm publications.

Individual reports are confidential by law and are used only to tabulate totals.

Advance reports for all counties, states, and the Nation will be published starting this fall. Reports will be available through the U.S. Government Printing Office, as well as many universities, and depository libraries.
