Brodericks Tavern re-opens

By Heather Mathes-Harris
Of The Carlisle Mercury Staff

WASHINGTON - The historic Brodericks Tavern in Washington, near Maysville, will host a Grand Re-opening on December 1 under new ownership.

Suzanne and Earl McIntosh, Carlisle natives, bought the establishment in October and have renovated the historic inn and tavern.

"We own the 1790 Sandwich Shoppe in Washington and were forever asked, what happened to Brodericks Tavern?" said Suzanne McIntosh.

"Our interest peaked and we went from there. Brodericks has been closed for about a year and a half, and was an antique shop for a year, so we had some serious renovations and upgrading to do before we could open."

McIntosh said the historic site has retained its unique style and they have worked hard to preserve the heritage and quality of the restaurant.

"Brodericks opened as a restaurant and tavern in 1789 and we are trying to keep it as close to that period as possible. Everything has been researched from furniture, and lighting styles to food preparation and dress," McIntosh said.

"Employees and servers will dress in late 1700's costume and antiques provided by area antiques shops and dealers will furnish our restaurant.

"This way, if someone sees something they would like to buy for their home when eating here, they may."

The establishment will feature country food served family style.

"We will be serving items such as pan fried chicken, steaks, marinated chicken and also something unique - buffalo. Our vegetables will be served in bowls, family style," McIntosh said.

She also said pricing at the establishment would be reasonable.

"Of course, with 20 employees, we will have a lot of overhead. But we have tried to keep the prices reasonable," McIntosh said.

"But the overall quality is going to be greatly improved from what it previously was. Brodericks will be clean, have top-notch service, quality food and be a place where you can take the whole family.

"And we don't serve hard liquor, but we do have beer and ale available."

Brodericks seats 148, and although reservations are not a must, they are available upon request.

"We would love to have everyone from Carlisle come and join in the reopening of Brodericks Tavern, we think everyone will enjoy being a part of this historic event," McIntosh said.
