Drugs may be as close as your kitchen cabinets

Children do not have to go far to find ways to get high on drugs. All they have to do is open a few closets or cupboards in your home.

Experts are labeling more than 1,000 household products as inhalants—chemical substances which people can breathe to get a chemical high.

Experts are now calling the widespread use of dangerous inhalants a full-blown epidemic. Around 17% of all American children in the eighth grade have sniffed an inhalant at least once.

Womack retains membership Kansas City, Missouri—Dr. Glenn H. Womack of Flemingsburg, Kentucky, has accepted continuing medical education requirements to retain active membership in the American Academy of Family Physicians (AAFP).
