

GENERAL NEWS

D-Day

...night and day. As the day drew closer, everything had to be perfect and everyone was to know his job, and others to, just in case.

...The next day that we were to leave the division into the area that had barb wire locked behind us. No contact was to be made outside of the command with anyone. All forces were ready through England.

...The Army, Navy, Air Force, Marines and all units of the U.S. and the other countries were ready, so it seemed.

Fisher recalls homefront memories from World War II, D-Day Invasion

DOUGLASS. Five dark blue and white cardboard stars in the window, letters marked "centered" and a news cast about "Johnny Comes Marching Home" remain in the memories of Helen Fisher about World War II.

McCarty marked by war.

CARLISLE. The late Charles McCarty, who served during World War II and talked about the war when it was over.

...son was to be the 4th Division. It was to land on the beaches nearest Cherbourg, the "Utah Beach."

...After entering the barb wire areas, final preparations were completed, shots were given, and practice landing started. This time we loaded the vessels. We didn't get back off. The time was to make war with the enemy, but you're still scared to death.

...The tanks were sent in stopping only for a moment to get rid of the waste materials required to get from the ships to land.

...aggressive action and being very stubborn. There were good fighters. That 88 m. weapon they had could knock a flea off a dog's back. We learned to respect it very much.

...I drove one of these tanks. When Gen. Patton came ashore with our tank division, the 4th Division was put on the assault point headed for Paris.

...The only thing I know for sure, is that in June, an American flag will proudly be displayed outside my day's door, in honor of the men and women who fought with the World War II and for the memory of those who never returned home.

Dept. sets summer events

Four Kentucky wildlife management areas (WMA) operated by the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources (KDFWR) will be open for squirrel hunting June 1-14.

...The two-week season on Green River Lake, Yellowbank, Higginson-Henry and Clay WMAs is designed to allow harvest of squirrels during a period following the spring breeding season.
