FACTS & FIGURES
 (OAT) — Does it feel like you're working harder, but not getting ahead? Well, you're probably right. Here are some figures from a report recently issued by the President's Commission on Worker Management Relations.

* U.S. workers spend about 200 hours a year more on the job than their European counterparts. The length of vacation and holiday time for Americans has actually decreased over the past 20 years.

NOTICE OF EXPLANATION
 The City of Carlisle intends to relocate approximately 13,250 linear feet of water line in several downtown areas. These improvements are needed to maintain water quality and ensure reliable water service in the area. A small portion of the project is located in the 100-year floodplain. Proposed improvements cannot be undertaken in any other location. There are, therefore, no other practicable alternatives to the proposed project.
