LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Says hospital job should go to Ecton
Dear Editor and the people of Nicholas County:
I'm writing in regard to the administrative job at Johnson Matthers Health Care. Why don't you give the job to Ecton?

Even in the 90s, the 12th grade will be the 'moon' for many.
Although I support higher education, I also feel obligated to everyone. For some it's not affordable. For others, not everyone wants to be a doctor, lawyer, teacher, or other professional.

Students, tutors welcome at Family Resource Center, says director
The Nicholas County Family Resource Center works directly with children, youth, and adults in Nicholas County.

Farmers support Nicholas County education, too
Dear Editor:
I thoroughly enjoyed the recent coverage and interviews in the Herald about Nicholas County schools.

McDonald's Grocery at Headquarters is the place to go for grocery items that are good, fast, and affordable. It's a great place to go for groceries. It's a great place to go for groceries.

Donny Williams of Carle transported the grand marshal of the annual Carle Days parade last Friday, Sept. 16. Williams was assisted by Tom, a Percheron horse. Frank McDonald also helped Williams.

MARRIED: Miss Lucille Lewis, Lexington, Ky., and William Lewis, Lexington, Saturday, Sept. 17, 1984.
MARRIED: Miss Barbara Jean Wough, to Jerry Warren Henry, Saturday afternoon, September 21, 1984.

Superintendent's Notebook

By Randy Evelyn
Editor's Note: The following is a column by Nicholas County Superintendent of Schools Randy Evelyn. Mr. Evelyn has agreed to write a weekly column, and The Mercury welcomes him. We hope you will as well.

Characteristics of a Successful School System
All successful schools have certain basic characteristics. No matter the economic circumstance of the students, no matter what the educational background of the parents, no matter what the ethnic or racial composition of the students, when certain elements of education exist together, successful schools are created.

1. There is a striking respect and professional relationship among teachers, and it is encouraged by their principal.
2. Each school is relatively independent in decision making of education staff, together, several schools are created.

3. Each school is relatively independent in decision making of education staff, together, several schools are created.
4. Parents are regarded as critical to school success and the success of their child. Parents are made to feel welcome, included, and necessary to their child's learning process.

5. In each school, there is a simple and pervasive commitment to children's importance, their self-esteem, and their capacity to learn.
