CHS Class of 1936 had undefeated team

The members of this team enjoyed playing the sport, the fun of the game was worth the toil, pain and all around effort. Each member was cognizant of the necessity of athletic success - you must practice hard with your own effort or you did not play. Team play was paramount. They were not looking for a step up in professional status.

These were young men, happy filled with the dreams of youth, aware of the economic depression, basically content with their place in life at that time. The CHS used the Dickerson System in determining championship. Somerset was CWC champions although Carlsile was superior. Somerset was CWC champion of any other conference school.
