Fiscal Court

Find a map, Doug Magistrate (Dary) Stacy asked Clerk Doug Fryman, who retrieved a large paper map from an office and spread it on the large conference table.

Stacy said the area wasn't in his district, but he believed that Fryman and the county road foreman said the area belonged to the county that it must belong to the county.

County Attorney Jack Conley said the area must be maintained by the county if it is maintained at any time in the 15 years it gave access to residents wanting to go to and from their property.

Halen said he would like the land owner to fund road access - then the county takes over the maintenance.

You're showing me the creek," Halen told magistrate while gathered around the map. This has been a creek since 1900, if it's a county road, it would be registered. You get money from the state on miles of county road you have, if you're registered '84, Halen countered.

Stacy said the county road foreman said the area had been washed away by the creek. There are residents wanting better access to their property and use a four-wheel drive to travel through the creek.

Magistrate Hughes said the issue would contact the Cooper family wishing the road access and what the court could do to help them, without getting easements from neighbors.

In other action, Stacy was appointed by the court to fill a vacancy on the Nicholas County Extension Board, per the request of Extension Agent John Mark Ha.

The court decided not to accept a $100 payment for rock from a terminally ill resident, Magistrate Avery Thornburg was adamant about not accepting the check from the 52-23 year old man. "If the county needs the money that's the way to go," he commented. "That's the way to go."

Magistrate visited to allow Judge Smith to be on the book-out for a road roller. We want to start blacktopping Monday," Stacy said.

Jeff Randolph of American Legion Post 17, sponsor of the Annual Blackberry Festival held July 3-8 this year, thanked the court for support during the festival. The court agreed to use the festival the Legion to use the 1994-95 festival. The festival has been washed away by the creek. There are residents wanting better access to their property and use a four-wheel drive to travel through the creek.
