Tansui receives Berea College degree

BEREA, KY-Nicholas County High graduate Panatda (June) Tansui was one of 194 seniors who received degrees form Berea College on May 28. Additional students who expect to complete degree requirements this summer also were recognized at the graduation ceremony in Phelps Stokes Chapel.

Commencement speaker Carol M. Browner urged members of the graduating class to take an active role in managing the earth's natural resources. Browner, administrator of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, told the seniors that a new generation of environmental protection is needed to meet the challenges of the next 25 years.

"If there is one thing that I hope you have learned here at Berea College, it is to make sure that you are part of making the choices that face this nation. Don't leave those decisions to others,' she told graduates. "Be part of the community that is this land and this nation. Make yourself heard. Make a difference. Dare to act."

Two staff awards were announced at the graduation service. John Courter, professor of music, received Berea's highest faculty recognition, the Seabury Award for Excellence in Teaching. The Elizabeth Perry Miles Award for Community Service was presented to Joan Moore, nurse practitioner at the College Health Service.

Recipients of the T.J. and Hilda Wood Awards for outstanding achievement were honor graduates Li Jing Sun of China, who received a bachelor of arts degree in chemistry and physics, and Surani Yayasuriya of Sri Lanka, a mathematics major.

Honorary degrees were awarded to the college's late President Emeritus John B. Stephenson and to his widow, Jane Stephenson, an adult education specialist and founder of the New Opportunity School for Women.

Panatda received a bachelor of science degree in business administration. A dean's list student at Berea, she was a member of Fleur de Lis and Phi Beta Lambda honor societies and recently was awarded the college's Navy V-12 Award, given to students who promote international understanding on the campus. Her host parents are Dr. and Mrs. Leon Riggs of 2799 Concrete Road, Carlisle.

Abnee receives U of L scholarship

LOUISVILLE, KY-A Nicholas County High School students has received a President's Scholarship to attend the University of Louisville.

Amanda Abnee, a graduating senior at Nicholas County in Carlisle, is the daughter of Conn and Barbara Abnee and Debbie Brackett of Mt. Olivet.

The President's Scholarship is a four-year, full tuition award, renewable providing the student maintains a 3.0 grade point average.

U of L is among the nation's oldest metropolitan universities. Through its 13 schools, colleges and divisions, the university offers 52 undergraduate, graduate and professional degrees in more than 170 fields of study.

For further information, contact Heather Boutell, U of L admissions, (502) 852-6531.

Nicholas students at leadership regional

Nicholas County students joined students from throughout Kentucky in the Bluegrass Prevention Center and the Champions Youth Advisory Council (YAC) region-wide middle school Teen Leadership Conference at the Ewing Street gym, Frankfort, May 12.

There were approximately 85 students from nine middle schools in attendance. Motivational presentations were given by Doug Flynn and Winston Bennett on "Staying Drug Free."

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Not everything is clear where job interests are concerned. It's best to do some further research to find out what's going on. The weekend finds you magnetic and romantic. Couples enjoy special times.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) News may come about a financial matter this week. Distractions at work could interfere with progress so try to avoid daydreaming. You could get more done at home than at the office.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Good will opens doors for you in business, but avoid financial risk-taking. While you're inclined to trust what someone's saying, this requires more analysis. Going out this weekend is favored.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) It could occur to you this week that there's a lot to be done at home base. Instead of dreading it, just get off your seat and tackle those chores. New business developments are likely. Romance is favored this weekend.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Mixed messages and confused signals make it slow-going early in the week. However, you have extra drive and energy now and will make up for lost time later in the week. Enjoy home life with loved ones this weekend.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) It's a better week for saving money than spending. Guard against unfeasible and costly tangents. Be sure you have your feet on the ground concerning romance. The weekend's accent is on having fun with friends.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) You might not exactly understand what a relative is trying to tell you. This person is being unnecessarily circumspect. Encourage a straightforward approach. Take the initiative in planning a social get-together.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) It's a better week for finishing pending projects than for plunging into something new. You're a bit bored and restless with the status quo, but you need to stick with it for now. The weekend finds you effervescent.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) The plans you make this week could include travel. It's not the best time for mixing friendship and business, although you are sorely tempted to do so. You'll be especially effective in staging your views this weekend.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Don't have too many irons in the fire this week. Concentrate on one project and you'll make important progress. Both social and mental interests are highlighted this weekend, although you must prioritize invitations.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) It could be difficult to finalize travel plans now due to a partner's stubbornness. However, you must overcome this since teamwork leads to accomplishment. News comes from a friend who lives far away this weekend.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Guard against an unwise use of credit this week. This isn't really in keeping with your usual frugal nature. Determination and drive combine to bring you success on the job. Talks with higher-ups are favored.

Dear Abby

The Record Is Set Straight In Candy Bar Controversy

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1995 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Babe Ruth and the Baby Ruth candy bar were mentioned in your April 28 column. Unfortunately, Cindy Adams of San Diego misinformed you and your readers by erroneously quoting the Baby Ruth commercial which is now airing as a salute to baseball legend Babe Ruth.

In her letter, she shared her version of the commercial-with the following quote, "Babe Ruth — one of the all-time greats of baseball. To this day you hear his name, as he had a candy bar named after him."

Abby, the candy bar was not named after Babe Ruth, as she stated, and the commercial doesn't suggest that it was. Rather than implying that the Baby Ruth candy bar was named for the baseball hero, the TV commercial suggests that perhaps it was the secret weapon responsible for "The Babe's" success. Folklore has it that the candy bar was actually named after Ruth Cleveland, daughter of our 22nd president, Grover Cleveland. This is the message that Nestle has consistently communicated since acquiring the Baby Ruth business in 1989.

The commercials were made as a tribute to Babe Ruth during the 1995 yearlong celebration of the 100th anniversary of Ruth's birth. It's nice to know that people of all ages still honor him. The Baby Ruth TV ad is one of the many authorized tributes to Daddy that are planned for this year.

retell the story of The Babe's famous center field home run.

We appreciate the opportunity to clarify our message behind the "Babe" advertising campaign, and hope that you will find space in your column to correct the misinformation shared with so many of your dedicated readers worldwide.

PATRICIA BOWLES,
MANAGER, PUBLIC RELATIONS,
NESTLE CHOCOLATE AND CONFECTIONS, GLENDALE, CALIF.

P.S. As for the Ruth family and their feelings about the new Baby Ruth ads, Julia Ruth Stevens (daughter of "The Sultan of Swat") asked me to forward the following to you:

DEAR ABBY: I have enjoyed your column for many years, and read with interest the letter from the writer who thought the TV commercial indicated the Baby Ruth candy bar was named after my father.

Our whole family is excited about how the country is celebrating the 100th anniversary of Daddy's birth. It's nice to know that people of all ages still honor him. The Baby Ruth TV ad is one of the many authorized tributes to Daddy that are planned for this year.

In the TV commercials, Nestle refers to the "secret weapon" that may have led to his success. Other "secret weapons" were his generosity and sincere appreciation of his fans.

Thank you in advance for printing this letter.

JULIA RUTH STEVENS

DEAR MS. BOWLES AND JULIA RUTH STEVENS: I heard from a surprising number of readers offering varied opinions about the origin of the Baby Ruth candy bar name. Some said it was named after the granddaughter of the president of the company which introduced it. Others claimed it was called "Baby Ruth" instead of "Babe Ruth" to avoid paying royalties to the Ruth family.

Thank you for clarifying the confusion concerning the Baby Ruth/Baby Ruth TV commercials.
