Sunnyside Homemakers

The Sunnyside Homemakers met on Tuesday, February 21, 1995, at the home of Louise Carbert in Clarke. Lavina McFarland called the meeting to order. Six members answered rolls call by rolling out of the best things an adult did for us when we were child. Eleanor Brumley read minutes of the last meeting. Lavina gave the devotional reading scripture, James 5:13. She read a story, 'Shaped Anna Mae Gillispie to have prayer. Eleanor read a good reading about God's handiwork. Eleanor and Lavina both had nice thank you cards for us to read. One from Mikea Bush and one from Ruth Isaham. Phyllis Brady read the thought for the month. After a few announcements to enjoy a good lunch along with many other good things. The soup was made by Lavina McFarland. Some exchanged Valentine gifts.

Natasha's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) A slow squander is yet to end your trust. However, given some time this person probably has a valuable ally. Your enthusiasm about a work project could cause you to work overtime now.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) You need to be wary of business propositions with strings attached. Doing something different from your usual routine is too far later in the week. Romantic good news emerges now.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Something you say this week could be taken in the wrong way by an associate on the job. Guard against such slips of the tongue as they cause more aggressive charges at home late over the weekend.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Be cautious when shopping this week. Be sure to shop in reputable stores only. Otherwise, you could come out with the wrong kind of a proposition. You'll be making some positive changes at home late over the weekend.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) The caution when shopping this week. Be sure to shop in reputable stores only. Otherwise, you could come out with the wrong kind of a proposition. You'll be making some positive changes at home late over the weekend.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Give a family member the benefit of the doubt this week. Your suspicions are unwarranted and are working overdrive. Some could be hearing from a friend who hasn't been seen in a while. This person brings welcome news.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) You should act on these new money-making ideas of yours. Originally in a strong point of luck. Someone close to you could be out of sorts and your project could cause you to work overtime now.

SLIPPING for the home is a plus over the weekend. Scheduling is in the stars this weekend.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) You could be underestimating the difficulty of a task, but with perseverance, you'll eventually get things done in a satisfactory manner. A co-worker can be helpful in this venture. Scheduling is in the stars this weekend.

DECEMBER (December 22 to January 19) You won't appreciate someone's side remarks or power play affects this week. However, you'll be enthusiastic and pleased about career related developments. Much is accomplished by week's end and you're admitted to relax.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) You could be second thought about a matter in connection with a friendship. It's possible that you're right about this person and you're being taken advantage of. Take steps to remedy this.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) You'll be investigating new ways to help your capital in good use this week. Someone close to you is being quite generous about a business affair. Try to get to the bottom of this. The weekend brings happy times for you.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) You'll be dealing with someone who has contradictory opinions this week. Avoid letting this distract you from tasks at hand. Social times with parents and friends are highlighted this weekend.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: I am writing to inform anyone with a living will that it is sometimes interpreted by the doctor's "will" to decide for the patient.

My husband passed away last April, but his doctor had had his way, my husband's will said "I'll still be here on life support. Bill had a living will that clearly stated he had decided. But my family and I had to fight with the doctor until we were able to pass on peacefully.

It is funny when Bill was diagnosed with cancer. The doctor informed them that he would look back their life support and they also said, "No, to prevent Father's wishes."

On the seventh day, my husband finally passed on — without having been looked to life support. The Abby, please tell your readers that all doctors will honor living wills. People must carefully inform a doctor about their wishes on an artificially prolonging life before passing. Otherwise, you could lose a loved one, but it is in their hands when you die. Bill would have it. He struggled so hard they had his wife and son in the bed like an animal. At that moment, I happened to walk into the room. My husband was very upset. He said, "You promised! You promised you wouldn't let them do this!"

DEAR GRIEVING: Please accept my sympathy on the loss of your husband. At a time when you should have been gathered around your husband, allowing him to pass on peacefully, you and your children had to direct your energy toward fighting a physician who wanted to impose his own wishes. As a doctor, I should respect the patient's wishes, especially when they have been clearly stated on paper in a living will. If the doctor refuses to do so, the family should file a formal complaint with the medical licensing board in their state.
