Judge-Ramey engagement announced

Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Judge announces the engagement of their daughter, Gretchen Lynn, to Scott Fisher Ramey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ollie C. Ramey of Lexington.

Miss Judge is a 1989 graduate of Nicholas County High School and a 1994 graduate of the University of Kentucky College of Pharmacy. She will receive her Doctor of Pharmacy degree in May 1995 and is employed by Johnson, Mathers Health Care in Carlisle.

The wedding will take place May 27, 1995, at the Carlisle Christian Church.

The Nicholas County Hospital Auxiliary purchased a geriatric chair for Johnson Mathers Nursing Home with funds collected this year from the annual benefit dinner and other contributions. Dorothy Kinnel, director of Volunteer Services, said "I understand the chair has been put to good use. Even care we take goes back to use at the hospital. We purchased a sleeper chair last year." The auxiliary has helped out with contributions for nearly 20 years. From left are Auxiliary President Alma Criss, Dorothy Kinnel and Margaret Ring.

Information Superhighway Could Mean Economic Independence For Eastern Kentucky.

South Central Bell wants to bring the information superhighway to you. In fact, we already are. The information superhighway is a highway primarily made of glass - that is, the glass fiber strands of fiber optic cable. South Central Bell has been investing in fiber optic cable and optical technology for nearly a decade. We have installed almost 58,000 miles of fiber optic cable around Kentucky alone. Last year, we invested over $160 million making sure Kentuckians had the best and latest technologies available from our industry. That investment has included and will continue to include investment in fiber optic cable and optical technology. That's important because it's reliable. It's as reliable as the people you've come to know and trust at South Central Bell. That's important, too, because of the great many things optical technology will allow you to do. With it, IRG reports can travel from a country clinic to an urban hospital where a cardiologist waits for immediate consultation. With it, businesses can send data messages quickly and without interruption or distortion from offices in remote locations to headquarters facilities in major cities. With it, you can do anything that can be done by telephone, computer and fax from your home or business - virtually anywhere that happens to be. The information superhighway makes geography irrelevant. Call forwarding can help you stay in business in bad weather. If you operate a small business and lived through last year's 16 inch (plus) snowfall, you probably cringe every time weather forecasters mention snow. But with Call Forwarding, you can stay in business, you can plan ahead for that all-forecasted crippling winter storm. If the forecast calls for snow, simply forward your business calls to your home number and the next morning you can enjoy the Winter Wonderland, confident that your customer's calls will still get through. If this interests you, call 557-6000 and let a South Central Bell service representative tell you more about it.
