Dr. Shire, Dr. Bob Sparks, right, and in front, MCC public relations specialist Sylvia Walsh discussed the Licking Valley program at the Sparkses in Carlisle last Thursday night.

Sparkses host MCC Licking Valley representatives

CARLISLE - The home of Carol Dr. Bob Sparks was the site of the Leadership Awareness Session in the Licking Valley area Thursday, Oct. 26.

Among the guests were Maysville Community College President Dr. Shires and Sylvia Walsh, MCC community relations, and Louise Zachary of Carlisle.

According to the Development Newsletter of the MCC Development Office's Campaign Update No. 4, the Kentucky Council on Higher Education designated Licking Valley as a college center following nine years of hard work. The recognition is related to the advancement of educational opportunities in the area as well as the Partners in Progress campaign.

The Maysville Community College Licking Valley Center, under the administration of Bruce Florence, is now able to offer degree programs on site.

This means students can work toward an associate degree without travelling out of the Cynthiana/Carlisle/Paris area.

Paul Patton has proved he has the vision to lead the people and the skills to manage a government. This is our chance to elect a governor who is familiar with the needs of Kentucky and particularly Nicholas County.

Kentucky has not had a mountain governor since the administration of Bert Combs which ended in 1963. It was under Governor Bert Combs administration that Lake Carnico was funded and became a reality.

I endorse Paul Patton, not because he is my friend, not because he is a Democrat or not because he is from my home county - Pike County. I endorse Paul Patton because he is the best qualified candidiate for governor.

When Paul Patton wins this election, we all win.

Folks have a choice - this time!

To The Editor:

We folks in Eastern Kentucky have a choice. We can give Paul Patton our full support or wait another twenty years for a governor candidate from Eastern Kentucky.

If you choose not to support Paul Patton, please down the road, don't complain about conditions in Eastern Kentucky.

Our selection of the state needs a man with Paul's experience in county government, plus his experience as Lt. Gov. It's going to take dedication and love for Eastern Kentucky to move into the next century. I strongly feel Paul Patton is ready and able to do this.

I have known Paul for twenty-five years. While serving on the Ky. Fish and Wildlife Commission for over 24 years, Paul was always with me and the sportsmen of Kentucky.

In our hearts we all know that this Eastern Kentucky candidate should receive an overwhelming vote from all of us who love Eastern Kentucky.

Voting: a precious right

Dear Editor,

In a few short days the people of Kentucky will have the opportunity to exercise one of our most precious rights as citizens of this state and of our county, the right to vote in free elections. This is a critical election. You and I and the people of Kentucky stand at a crossroads concerning the future direction of our state. I have studied the issues and the candidates.

I believe in my heart and think in my mind that Paul Patton, candidate for Governor, will lead us forward. Paul Patton is an intelligent man, educated to solve problems. He is also a man of integrity, committed to serve the people of Kentucky.

Your vote is critically important in this election. Each person has a precious vote. I urge each of you to vote for the future. Vote for Paul Patton.

Patton is lying, Forgy supporter claims

Dear Editor,

Paul Patton is lying about Larry Forgy's record. Paul is now attacking Larry Forgy for being a Frankfort insider. This attack from Paul is ludicrous. Paul has been a Lt. Gov., Democratic Party Chairman and Campaign Chairman for Bill Clinton. Further, he selected Terry McBrayer, insider of insiders, to be his Chairman at the state Democratic Party. No change can come from Paul and his anti-gun running mate Steve Henry, because their cronies are the same old road contractors that have controlled the Governor's Mansion for a generation.

Only Larry Forgy and Tom Handy, two dedicated, honest conservatives, can bring the change that Kentucky needs. With their leadership, we can move ahead without the special interest politics of contractors like Leonard Lawson. Further, Larry Forgy will re-examine KERA to give Kentucky an educational system we all can support.

Sincerely,
Rob Bowling

Burley markets: cautious optimism are the bywords

Burley tobacco producers have reason to be cautiously optimistic this marketing season. Prices may be equal or better than last year's.

"Strong prices for flue-cured tobacco markets, which opened in July, coupled with tight worlds burley supplies relative to use, lead some to believe that this year's markets will open strong and remain that way," said Will Snell, Extension agricultural economist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Prices for this year's flue-cured crop will likely average 10 cents a pound higher than last year's, he said, reflecting a strong demand. Furthermore, less than one percent has been placed in the flue-cured pool. When the industry agreed earlier this year to grading and price support changes, it was expected that the price of U. S. the 1995 burley crop would fall about three cents per pound. Now, given existing supply and demand conditions, any price decline would prove a disappointment to the industry, Snell said.

"The current strong overseas demand for U. S. tobacco and tobacco products, coupled with a reportedly improving 1995 burley quality crop, indicates that burley prices may increase above last year's $1.84 per pound average, with little going into the pool, Snell said.

Wet burley prices likely will be higher this year in response to a 3.5 cent per pound reduction in marketing assessment.

Snell also said that with a fairly tight supply relative to demand, prices for burley may not vary much among grades.

What about quota for 1996?

"Strong demand for U. S. tobacco over the past few months has improved the quota outlook for 1996. However, uncertainty still surrounds issues related to quota, including potential FDA/Congressional regulation, tobacco program changes and the size of the 1996 foreign burley tobacco crop, which is now just being planted," Snell said.

The major factor that will effect 1996 quota, Snell said, is manufacturer's purchase intentions, which will be highly dependent on what happens in the next few months.

"Assuming a favorable Washington, D.C. environment, and a small increase in foreign burley production, 1996 purchases intentions may stay relatively constant. Stable purchase intentions would result in 1996 burley quotas remaining similar to 1995 quota levels," Snell said.

Letters To The Editor

The right choice is obvious writer says

To The Editor:

On Nov. 7, the voters of the Commonwealth will have the opportunity to choose between two candidates to lead our state as Governor for the next four years. For those of us who live and work in Nicholas County, the right choice is obvious: Paul Patton.

His integrity and experience are unmatched. His vision of Kentucky's future focuses on issues that affect our families everyday: education, job, crime and fiscal fairness. Furthermore, his tenure as a county judge executive provides him with insight into the real issues solving the everyday problems of the state's largest county.

Being a native of Pike County, I have personally seen the tremendous improvements achieved during Paul Patton's terms as Pike County Judge Executive. He extended water lines, paved hundreds of miles of roads; implemented the states first county-wide garbage collection program and brought hundreds of jobs to Pike County.

"He extended water lines, paved hundreds of miles of roads, implemented the state's first county-wide garbage collection program and brought hundreds of jobs to Pike County."

As Lieutenant Governor of Kentucky, Patton served as economic development secretary. Patton has written legislation which brought 40,000 jobs to Kentucky.

Paul Patton has proved he has the vision to lead the people and the skills to manage a government. This is our chance to elect a governor who is familiar with the needs of Kentucky and particularly Nicholas County.

Kentucky has not had a mountain governor since the administration of Bert Combs which ended in 1963. It was under Governor Bert Combs administration that Lake Carnico was funded and became a reality.

KSP licensing

O'Daniel. Equally progressive, if not controversial, is the requirement that all new drivers take a mandatory driver education course before age 21. Failure to complete the course would result in suspended license privileges.

"The licensing system we and others are proposing makes learning to drive a genuine learning experience. It's gradual, like the term 'graduated licensing' implies," Peter said. More than 20 states already have some form of graduated licensing, according to Peter. "And it's because they recognize the importance of saving children and protecting them on the roadways."

"It's gradual, like the term graduated licensing implies."

Alcohol limits would drop for those under 21 if the proposal passes in its current form, according to O'Daniel. The blood-alcohol level that would be considered "illegal per se" would be .02 rather than the higher standard of .10. The test, administered to drivers thought to be under the influence, measures the amount of alcohol in the bloodstream. Under Kentucky law, blood-alcohol content is the basis for drunk driving offenses. "We cannot leave any room for drunken driving in any age group," O'Daniel said. "But we're especially troubled by drunk drivers in our target group, 16-21."

Those who are ticketed would have "points" deducted from their license much the way other violations result in point losses now, according to O'Daniel. "Only these violations will cost drivers more points."

"State Police choose topics to support very carefully," Peter said. "This is one we can't afford to ignore." The commissioner said he hopes the basic provisions of the legislation pass the 1996 General Assembly.

QUICK FACTS ON GRADUATED LICENSING

• Kentucky law has not changed the way it licenses drivers in at least 40 years.

Jimmy Whirles, Sammy and Bernice Whirles, Rodney Mitchell and his mother, Mrs. Jackie Crump, and Marty Flora and stepson Brian Sapp and Debbie Flora turned out for Senior Night at NCHS Oct. 27.

• In 1994, 130 fatal accidents involved juvenile drivers and 32 percent were 18 years old.

• Those accidents killed a total of 153 people.

Graduated licensing now before lawmakers calls for:

• Drivers 16-18 covered by change, with other changes affecting those 18-21.

• Permits valid for 1 year, rather than six months.

• Permits held for 90 days, rather than 30 before testing for license.

• Permit drivers must have 21 year old or older driver in care, that than any age driver with a permit.

• Drivers under 18 prohibited from driving between midnight and 6 a.m. barring emergency.

• Drivers over 18 prohibited from driving between midnight and 6 a.m. WITHOUT an accompanying 21 year old or older driver.

• Points assessed for violations of above provisions, according to number of violations and age.

• All drivers under 21 must complete a driver education course within one year of obtaining license. Licenses suspended for failure to complete.

• Lower blood alcohol levels for drivers under 21. Drops to .02 from .10

Three Nicholas students selected as MSU advisers

Three Nicholas County students have been selected as resident advisers (RA's) for the 1995-96 school year at Morehead State University.

Kristi Barton, Alice Fryman and Janelle Kay Sibert are among more than 75 RA's selected this year.

Barton, daughter of Billy and Gail Barton of Carlisle, is a senior health education major.

Fryman, daughter of Sally Anderson of Paris and John Fryman of Carlisle, is a junior medical secretary major. She is a member of the hall council and RA Advisory Board.

Sibert, daughter of Martha and Eugene Sibert of Carlisle, is a junior finance major. She is a member of Sigma Sigma Sigma social sorority, Student Activities Council and Gamma Beta honor society.

The role of an RA is to provide information about the campus and residence halls as well as assist students in adjusting to college life. RA works with students in building a community atmosphere and a feeling of togetherness by organizing residence hall programs and activities.
