Cassie reminded her brother, Brent, she only faked his death so he could get away from Springfield. Lucy awaited the results of her HIV test. Josh came to see Annie, only to learn she was leaving on vacation with Rick. In Ireland, Marty confronted her Aunt Kiki about her estate. She later met a handsome stranger who pretended to know her, and kissed her. Wait To See: Andy faces danger.

YOUNG AND THE RESTLESS: Sharon and Nick were married by a Justice of the Peace, and agreed to keep it a secret from their families for now. Lynn posed as a reporter to interview Matt about his athletics and the shooting. Paul, meanwhile, shook up Drake by suggesting the shooting was over drugs, and Drake was the shooter. Cole asked Jeri to return to New York, and then assured Victoria their marriage was the most important thing in his life. Blade was upset when he learned Rick had posed as him and had taken Ashley home. Victor returned a phone call from Hope. Wait To See: Paul may have found a breakthrough clue but will it backfire?

Dear Dex . . . by Dexter Dyer

DEAR DEX:

I'm very concerned about my 8-year-old son. Last year, his father and I divorced. It seemed that he took it as well as could be expected but now I'm not so sure. He has bad dreams at night, often waking up crying. When I ask him about it, he refuses to tell me what the dream was about.

His teacher tells me that he's been bullying other kids around and generally being anti-social. She says it seems he's very angry about something judging by his actions. She's even caught him trying to vandalize desks by scratching his initials into them.

The other day was the last straw. I got a call from a toy store in the local mall. My son was there with a friend and his mother. Apparently, the two boys snuck off to the toy store and my son tried to steal something. He was caught and I was called to come and pick him up.

What can I do about this? I don't know if I can handle much more.
WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED:

Children often blame themselves when parents divorce, even if you assure them it's not their fault. I suspect your son is angry because he feels he wasn't good enough to have you both together. In any event, he needs help right away. Contact the school's guidance counselor and ask if they have any special counseling programs for children of divorce. Many cities have groups like these days. It's probably also a good idea for both of you (or even just maybe your ex-husband) to have some family counseling. This should go a long way toward helping your son resolve this for himself.
