Church Corner

The following is an article written by a local church official, and does not necessarily reflect the views or opinions held by The Carlisle Mercury or Park Communications, Inc.

Scripture Lesson: Matthew 6:9-13. Scripture Text: Romans 6:16 "The Spirit Himself bears with our spirit that we are the children of God."

FATHER IN HEAVEN.

Those who receive Christ as Saviour are given "the right to become children of God" (John 1:12) "But as many as received him, to them gave he power to become the sons of God even to them that believe on his name: This makes them the objects of His Special Grace.

Of course God is good to all mankind. The Bible says, "He makes His sun rise on the evil and on the good , and He sends rain on the just and the unjust." (Matt 5:45). This sometimes called common grace.

Furthermore, God loved the world (we are the world) so much that He gave His Son to die for it. (John 3:16). But we who have been born into His family through His Son enjoy a unique fellowship with Him.

Here are some of the ways the Heavenly Father shows His special favor for His children.

1. He care for us (Peter 5:7) "Casting all your care upon his; for he careth for you." The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want.

2. He guides us (Psalms 48:14) "For this God is our God forever and ever: he will be our guide even unto death. Also in all thy ways acknowledge Him and He shall direct (or guide) thy paths.

3. He provides for us (Matt 6:8) "Be not ye therefore like unto them: for your father knoweth what things ye have need of, before ye ask him." (Philippians 4:19) "But my God shall supply all your needs according to his riches in glory by Christ Jesus. David of old said, "When he was young but now I am Old etc."

4. He give good things (Matt 6:11) "Give us this day our daily bread."

5. He's always there to listen to us (Heb. 4:16) "Let us therefore come boldly unto the throne of grace, that we may obtain mercy, and find grace in time of need.

6. He knows every detail of our lives, counting the hairs on our heads (Matt 10:30) "But the very hairs of your head are all numbered."

7. And best of all, He loves us. (John 3:11) "Behold what manner of love the Father has bestowed upon, "That we should be called the children of God."

8. As our Father in heaven, He deserves our praise and honor. And He is worthy of our trust.

Are you one of God's hurting children? Are you lonely, in need, perplexed, or discouraged and don't know what to do? Then call on your Heavenly Father. He loves you, and He wants you to cast all your care on Him.

Never forget that the Father in heaven is looking after His children here on earth.

God will take care of you still to the end,

O what a Father, Redeemer, and Friend,

Guiding, protecting, and keeping His own,

He will take care of you-trust Him alone.

Yes, God will take care of you!

Money picks Transylvania University as "best buy" in nation for education

For the second straight year, Money magazine has picked Transylvania as one of the top 100 best college buys in the nation. The personal finance magazine annually surveys over 1,000 four-year colleges across the country to determine which offer the best education for the dollar. The list is based on tuition compared with the quality of education at the school.

To rank America's 100 best college buys, Money analyzed 16 measures of educational quality, including entrance exam results, faculty strength and resources, library resources, instructional and student services budgets, and graduation rates.

Citrus Versatile, Healthful Fruits

Citrus fruits will satisfy your preference for a sweet or tart flavor and have many uses in the kitchen and elsewhere in the home. "Oranges and tangerines please people who prefer a sweet taste, while lemons, grapefruit and limes appeal to those who like a tart taste," says Melba Burch. They contain no fat, cholesterol or sodium, and are an excellent source of vitamin C. One serving per day is recommended of foods high in vitamin C. One-half cup of juice, a medium orange, or one-half grapefruit constitute one serving.

The lemon is one of the most versatile citrus fruits. Uses range from copper or brass polish or garbage disposal freshener to a recipe ingredient, flavor enhancer or anti-oxidant. Dip the end of a lemon half in salt and lightly rub tarnished copper or brass to clean and polish. Then, cut the half into pieces and run through your garbage disposal to freshen it. (Small pieces of orange rind also will freshen the disposal). You can use a small amount of lemon juice to replace salt. Lemon juice also enhances the flavor of many dishes. Squeeze some on a tossed salad to replace the dressing, to add zest (and replace margarine) on some vegetables such as broccoli, or to reduce the mayonnaise in tuna salad. Because lemons are high in vitamin C, you also can use the juice as an anti-oxidant to prevent fresh-cut fruits and vegetables from turning brown. Simply squeeze a few drops in a little water and splash on the fruit or vegetables. When lemons are plentiful, buy some extra and squeeze the juice to use soon or freeze for later use. Refrigerate freshly squeezed lemon juice in a tightly covered container and use within three days. For long-term use, squeeze the juice and grate or peel the rind. Freeze juice in ice cube trays and store in freezer bags for later use. Store the rind in freezer bags to use later. One lemon yields about three tablespoons of juice.

True limes, the most acidic of all citrus fruits, are a small, round and yellowish fruit used in the tart, creamy Key Lime Pie. The larger, greener varieties are a hybrid of the key lime and citron. Call "persian lime," they are the most widely distributed. You can substitute limes for most lemon uses. One lime provides two tablespoons of juice.

Sweet oranges, like navels, valencias and mandarins, are the most commonly used variety in North America. Valencias provide the best juice. Tangerines are a type of mandarin orange. When canned, the thick, rough skin is removed, leaving only the sweet flesh to enjoy. Seville oranges, which have a tart flavor, are used in marmalades.

Grapefruit are thought to be across between the pummelo (a huge citrus grown in southeast Asia) and the orange. White and pink fleshed varieties are plentiful. Pink fleshed grapefruit contain more vitamin C, making them more acidic, and more vitamin A than white fleshed grapefruit.

Citrus fruits have many uses as food and in cooking. Peel an orange or grapefruit and eat the sections as a snack or use them in salads or to garnish a meal. Fresh-squeezed orange or grapefruit juice makes a refreshing beverage any time of the day. You also can use orange juice when cooking pork. Marmalade or citrus chutney is a nice condiment for many foods. For more information, contact Melba Burch, County Extension Agent for Home Economics, at the Nicholas County Extension Office, 289-2312.

Dr. Daniel welcomed to Bourbon General as director of anesthesiology

PARIS, KY-The new doctor at Bourbon General Hospital has a nice enough personality, but he puts people right to sleep.

No one minds. It's how an esthesiologist R. Andrew Daniel, M.D., earns his living.

Bourbon General Hospital's new Director of Anesthesiology just completed a four-year residency at the University of Kentucky.

Anesthesiologists have a medical degree and have completed internship and residency, which includes three years of specialized anesthesia training. Having a person with those credentials in charge of anesthesia creates an added comfort to patients as well as concerned family members and friends.

Dr. Daniel said anesthesiologists do much more than prepare patients for surgery. Before the operation, they assess whether patients are good candidates to undergo anesthesia, decide what anesthetic to use and determine how it should be given. Dr. Daniel pointed out that how one reacts to anesthesia and how closely one is monitored can be just as crucial as the surgery itself.

After anesthesia is administered, Dr. Daniel monitors vital organ functions, helps form and execute a pain management strategy and administers pain medication by several different methods over the course of a few days. This helps alleviate a person's pain up to 95 percent and also reduces recovery time.

"Having an anesthesiologist with an M.D. degree is one of several ways we are enhancing our specialized care," said John Grant, CEO of Bourbon General Hospital. "Dr. Daniel helps us show that a small hospital can be big on professional standards."

A native of Hattiesburg, Miss., Dr. Daniel received his undergraduate degree from Millsaps College, Jackson, Miss., and his M.D. degree from the University of Alabama.
