Council

cents, the same as last year. The Ordinance was introduced by Faulkoner.

First reading was also given to upgrade the scale for operator grade two (licensed operators) for water and sewer plant operators. Five city employees are in the range of the grade, but not all five are at the top of the scale. The maximum earned per hour would be $9.32 per hour said City Clerk Mary Tapp. The motion was introduced by Fay. "It puts them more in line with what other city employees get, I think is the reasoning behind this request," Tapp said.

"The fact of the matter is, there's no money in the budget for more lights," Mayor Clark said.

At the close of the meeting, Clark said Carlisle/ Nicholas County Chamber of Commerce had asked council to attend a brief meeting 6 p.m. Monday, Oct. 2 at Johnson Mathers Health Care. "It should be a brainstorming session," Clark commented.

Bill Crawford, a chamber board member, told council that chamber wanted community input about ways to market Carlisle.

After the meeting adjourned, council members judged art work by Nicholas County Elementary School children for the City Government contest. Winners will be announced 10 a.m. Friday, Sept. 15. A portion of prizes were provided by Deposit Bank of Carlisle and First National Bank of Carlisle.

For tours of city facilities Thursday and Friday (Sept. 14-15), call the city office at 289-3700. City Government Week is being recognized throughout Kentucky to create awareness that city government is the government closest to the people, Clark said.

South Central Bell institutes late payment charges

South Central Bell telephone customers who pay their telephone bills late will soon see an extra charge on their bills. That's because on July 20 the Kentucky Public Service Commission approved South Central Bell's proposal for a late payment charge.

Beginning with the October bills, customers who don't pay the full amount of their September bills will be assessed a 0.6 percent charge on any unpaid current charges carried forward. That works out to be six cents for every ten dollars of unpaid balance. For example, customers carrying an unpaid balance of $30 from their September bills would find a late payment charge of 18 cents added to their October bills.

"The vast majority of our customers pay their bills on time and in full every month," said Dave Weller, regional director. "Late payments cause more processing and financing costs, and we don't feel those costs should be borne by customers who pay on time."

Customers will be notified of the late payment charge by a message in their bills in September and October. Plus, a late payment reminder will appear on each month's bill.

Quota hunt drawing set September 16

FRANKFORT, KY-The Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources (KDFWR) will hold a drawing for the quota hunt on Birdsville Island at Ohio River Islands WMA.

The drawing will be held at 10 a.m. CST on September 16, at the Birdsville Boat Ramp on Highway 137 in Livingston County. Persons must be present to be drawn.

The hunt will take place on October 28 and 29. Any deer can be taken.

For more information contact the Wildlife District office at (502) 753-6913.

Nicholas County Extension Agent Mike Phillips. Phillips couldn't attend the meeting due to a family medical emergency, Barker said explaining that the association wanted a soil sample of land at the industrial park. If suitable, the association would cut the grass making the area presentable and make educational demonstrations for fertilizer and seed that would show farmers what works best, hopefully saving them time and money.

Judge Smith said he'd been a farmer 40 years and didn't think the project would help him learn more about farming.

Barker compared the learning project to cooking. Everybody can cook, but there is more than one way to prepare a meal, he said. "We're not trying to convert anybody. We're not trying to teach anybody how to cook," Barker smiled.

Barker said the soil sample would need to be honored soon so work could begin immediately. Work done now could help in the spring, he said.

Stacy asked if the cleanup/demonstration area would be a money making venture for the cattle association. Barker replied any funds from hay at the site should go to the association to pay for clean up costs.

"Would like to break even," Barker commented. He further added the project "wouldn't be commercialized."

"Don't we mow up there, Judge?" Stacy asked.

"I need a right now," Judge Smith replied.

County Treasurer Wanda Dotson said she wasn't a voting member of the court but believed the area would benefit by looking better to those passing by on Concrete Road. She also thought it was a viable educational tool for Nicholas County's upcoming farmers.

Barker said the area was suggested because of its visibility to passersby. "Another thing we would like to do is to improve the appearance, so there would be some benefit to the community - to make it look like there's something happening there."

Attorney Conley commented, "It sounds like a win-win situation to me."

Barker said Spud Marshall of the Industrial Authority favored the project. Barker also said the association agreed to handle the whole area, not just the core most visible to the road, to help the county - not leave something half done.

A sign would be placed at the site to state the association's project and would also mention the support of fiscal court and the extension agency, Barker said.

Stacy said he'd like a letter of support be written to the magistrates from the county extension office. Barker said the extension office help with the project was invaluable, especially in the area of soil testing.

At the end of the 25 minute discussion, Magistrate Hughes made the motion to table the action with a second by Magistrate Freeman. "If it's not too late, we'll have an answer for you at the next meeting," Magistrate Stacy told Barker.

The courthouse roof was again a topic of discussion. Just this week, the dome on the courthouse moved. An architect will look at the area, now with a tarpaulen seen covering it, and include repair in a roof estimate to be bid. A special called meeting to open roof bids will be scheduled before the next court meeting, Judge Smith said.

Also, the road entrance at Miller Station should be enlarged soon. Bids for the project are being accepted, Smith announced.

Magistrates also unanimously agreed to purchase supplies form Sam's Wholesale Club, Lexington.

A brief study by Judge Smith showed that toilet paper, garbage bags, lights, and even tires could be purchased cheaper at Sam's. "I looked at what we were spending on toilet paper and we were being robbed," the judge commented.

Juanita Smith made the motion with a second by Stacy. "Anytime we can save money, I agree 100 percent," Stacy concluded.

Allen Clay Stone of Nicholas County gave the court a report of his last meeting as an alternate transportation representative with Bluegrass Area Development District. Magistrate Stacy is also a representative. The court agreed with Stone's request to make a resolution in support of getting work done to two bridges on the road to Moorefield.

Stone explained that the two-lane state road is heavily traveled and that the resolution may help make the bridges a state repair priority.
