Like To Trade Your UK Sweatshirt For This?

NO? DIDN'T THINK SO. Well, the students at the UK Community Colleges don't want to trade in theirs, either. But they'll have to if the scheme to strip UK of its community colleges is approved.

This takeover, conceived in part by an out-of-state consultant and opposed by 62% of Kentuckians,* would deny UK Community College students a degree from the University of Kentucky, and destroy their pride in being part of UK. A degree from the Kentucky Community & Technical College System would not have the same value.

Does it make sense to you to have a costly new political bureaucracy in Frankfort running the community colleges? Fight for the UK Community Colleges. Keep Us One.

Needs Committee is to facilitate discussion of the information found in the report at a series of public meetings. In an effort to attract a good representation of local residents, the Committee is facilitate discussion of the representation of local residents, the Committee is planning to hold these meetings at various sites throughout the county. The purpose of the meetings will be to verify the survey results and initiate the formulation of a community development plan.

NCHNC members believe that local citizens can not act together until they decide together how to act. The community meetings will provide opportunities for local residents to learn about the concerns of their neighbors and to offer their input to the advancement of the community development plan.

In the next two weeks, Human Needs Committee member will contact key leader in the communities of Carlisle, East Union, Moorefield, Myers, Blue Licks and the Baterville/Headquarters/Saltwell area to assist the committee in planning the meeting time and location most appropriate for each community.

The community meetings will result in a community development plan which Human Needs Committee members hope will improve the quality of life in Nicholas County through the enhancement of local health and human services. According to committee members, the success of his effort depends on the willingness of local residents to get involved.

All County residents are encouraged to attend, bring their lunch, hear others and be heard. Dessert (pie from Garrett's restaurant) and drinks will be provided. Questions concerning the Friday P. I. E. Forums should be directed to John-Hack at the Nicholas County Extension Service, (606) 289-2312.
