LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Juveniles destroy Christmas lights

To the Editor:
I want to express my sad feeling about what happened to my Christmas lights New Year's night 1997. The display at the home garden with the designs out in the yard got cut and the security lights were unplugged.

It's a shame for prints in the landscaping show these "hoodlums" were up to no good at all hours of the night, out destroying property all over town. The Juvenile Court system should be reformed. When this letter will be read in your paper, most will agree with me.

Ann Lee Lawson, Marked Jan. 3, Carlisle, Ky.

Legalize this pain medicine

Dear Editor:
Governor Patton, Your attention, Sir, it has come to my attention that though you have blacking disease from Eastern Kentucky, you have let the illness keep you from working. And saying you don't like cigarette smoking because more harm is very relevant, but what does it have to do with Terminal Ill Patients in need of a medicine going against the norm of society's understanding?

Value prevent many from using a legal medicine! Sir, watching your rise to Governor of Kentucky, I'm aware of your commitment to excellence, but you've failed to recognize the necessity of this medicine. Gateway Galbraith, one of your opponents in 1995, has fought for the legalization of cannabis as a medicine for 20 years.

Fiscal Court talks about gum, van and signs

By Leigh Stone
Managing Editor
Jim Galbraith's request to place two gum machines at the Nicholas County Courthouse was approved at Tuesday evening's meeting of Fiscal Court.

There, put them in court, and that would stop some of them from flying," she offered.

Magistrate Smith also has another option in mind. He had calls from people. Before it was blacktopped, they didn't want to pay. Now it's let us see how fast we can fly. They didn't drive as fast when it had holes in the road, you could lose a Volkswagen!"
