

Magistrate Daryl Stacy read from the documents supplied by Dr. Daryl Kingsover stating the right-of-way set up as of 30 years ago at Shepherd Hills as Magistrate Daryl Stacy and County Clerk Doug Fymin also take a look.

County Judge Chuck Smith for input before completing the fence.

Now, Conley has agreed to study the surveys and Final Court records and advise the court and the parties involved of the findings.

Shana said the fence was installed for the protection of their 20-month-old son, Jacob. All members of court were present including Daryl Stacy, Darryl Hughes, Juana Smith, Avery Thornburg, and Melvin Fymin.

At 4:25 p.m., Dr. Kingsover, a well-known local physician, began his talk. "I want to be here because of a misunderstanding between neighbors. I'm here to solve this. The problem is actually between the county and my neighbors, the Wiggins."

to be within their rights. Now, the judge believes the same point a surveyor made some wrong calculations, perhaps shorting the Wiggins of their property. "There's the missing property I bought for $60,000. But his rock wall is in the right place. I don't buy that," Shana said magistrates.

"It pains me to be here because of a misunderstanding between neighbors."

If not resolved, the Kingsovers said they had hired counsel who said it was not and dried and would easily go through court in their favor. However, they wanted to resolve the situation out-of-court if possible.

Magistrate Daryl Stacy said in his eight years on court he had always voted "yes" or "no" on the issues. But in this case he didn't know if the court had the authority to solve the land dispute. "I don't think the situation can have a 'yes' or 'no' vote."

"As I was saying 30 minutes ago," attorney Conley started.

"You've got to jump in there if you want to be a magistrate," Daryl Stacy said.

In other action, the court agreed with a motion by Darryl Hughes and a second by Daryl Stacy and all in favor to accept Delbert Johnson's bid of $14,500 for a drier and loader. Stacy was to contact a person who would ask about the equipment and get a verbal bid without stating Johnson's price early Wednesday, May 14, before the Mercury is at the newsstand. Johnson said the bid was accepted, he wouldn't relid next month because he needed the equipment now. Hughes said according to his findings in equipment magazines, a drier and loader cost $15,000.

Agreed to pay Big Sandy Area Detention Center $75 per day for juveniles and $25 a day for adults housing with a motion by Stacy and second by Hughes with all in favor. Meanwhile, they approved Montgomery County jail price at $25 a day for women and $20 a day for men.

Shana Wiggins said they temporarily stopped building the fence at the first request of the Kingsovers and sought the opinion of Judge Smith. Smith looked at the property and at the time, believed the Wiggins owned the property.

The Wiggins contend the fence doesn't sit on county right-of-way because they paid for an 80-foot lot, not a 71-foot lot which is what they left with if they moved the fence three feet back as the Kingsover's
