Literature class completes ad project

By Iris Combs NCBS Literature teacher. As a final exam project, students in Mrs. Combs' literature class were asked to create their own literature ad advertisement for Carle's or...

The rest of the May 19 court report will be published in the June 6 issue of The Carle's Mercury.

The Senior Citizens Center has existed in Carle for 20 years and still employs two of the people it started with, Cleola Thompson and Shirley Myrnes.

"We provide mass transportation, escort, information and referrals, and give telephone reassurance and home health services. We have four paid people. I told magistrates we could survive on $20,000, but not $15,000. I don't know what we'll do. We'll meet Thursday night to try to decide. Our total budget is about $100,000 a year with help from the city, county, federal money. I lashed an hour and a half that day and never walked in those people's shoes. The senior citizens are the taxpayers and they don't have a vote. After all these years, you, I think, if I've just changed one life."

Magistrate Juanita Smith, Avery Thornburg and Melvin Pryam are also on the senior citizens advisory board along with Betty and Charlie Jay, Jana Caswell, Janet Smart, Margaret Hunter, Marsha Florense, Julia Stuh, Billy Dale Crawford, Caylae Mayor Romie Clark, Melissa Pryam, Ben Glah, Chae, Ruth Craig, Mervyn Sams and Betty Barton.

According to the minutes of the special called meeting, Magistrate Avery Thornburg made the motion to give the senior citizens $16,000. He voted for it along with Magistrates Melvin Pryam and Juanita Smith. But Magistrate David Stacy and Danny Hughes voted with County Judge Kueste. County Smith voting, creating a tie. The motion was thrown out. Judge Smith said the tentative budget had allotted the senior citizen $16,000 and rather than carry on the discussion further, magistrates approved the budget as read by Treasurer Myrnes.

"Nothing's written in stone. It was only the first reading. I could change it," she added. She changed and said she didn't know how the advisory board would meet the budget crunch. She said she would like to see the first meeting was a hot dog luncheon on the May 28. The meeting was held on Tuesday, May 28. She said she wasn't at the special called meeting but was called if needed.

The Mercury couldn't reach Magistrate David Stacy or Danny Hughes for comment before press time but County said Stacy had talked with him earlier in the day. It also said that the first meeting had to be approved or they'd be there all night and the ordinance could be changed, Conley said.

Fiscal Court cuts $10,000 from senior program

Senior Director Shirley Vice to step down

By Leigh Stone Managing Editor. It was only the first reading of the Nicholas County Budget, but after more than an hour of discussion at last Thursday's special called meeting, the Nicholas County Senior Citizens Center was cut $10,000.
