Nicholas County High School prepares for KIRIS testing

Dear Parents of Junior Class Members:

We have recently completed a rigorous individual group evaluation that pinpointed individual group weaknesses that need to be addressed.

This year's test will take place at the Fleming-Mason Educational Conference Building in Fleming-Mason on Tuesday, April 21, with actual testing days following on April 22, 23, 24, 25, and 30.

We encourage parents to assist their students as they are well rested on nights before testing and they avoid over-studying.

The KIRIS results reflect the skills of our students, and we are confident that this year's junior class can maintain that same high standard.

We anticipate that students, with encouragement from their parents, will do well on the KIRIS test and give us their best effort.

Sincerely,
Greg A. Reid, Principal

Governor Patton declares April Community College Month

Also, the system in recent years has found increasingly on providing customized training to business and industry.

In January 1998, the Kentucky Community and Technical College System announced April 1998 as Community College Month in Kentucky.

By signing the proclamation, Governor Patton encourages all citizens of the Commonwealth to recognize the value and opportunities available in Kentucky's community colleges, which fill a vital function in the state's postsecondary education system.

"Community colleges play an important role in providing community-based education to our citizens," Patton said.

The education and training they offer are important economic development tools. But beyond that, they start students toward baccalaureate degrees and improve the quality of life in their service areas."

The University of Kentucky Community College System, which originated in 1962, provides career-oriented technical programs, prebaccalaureate education, and adult-continuing education programs.

Hip-Hop helping a young boy talk

Successful speech therapy often requires a high level of creativity and innovation. Julie Cain, M.A., C.P.S.V.T., M.Ed., is a speech language therapist at Nicholas County Hospital using a rabbit, "Hip-Hop" to motivate Cheyenne Collier, 4, of Carlisle, to pronounce difficult consonant sounds.

According to Julie, animals are a good way to stimulate a patient during speech therapy. The rabbits were donated courtesy of Jim Gray of JMHC environmental services.

A rabbit was a division of the Roman's and serving in size from 4,000 to 6,000 years.
