Citizens gathered to review a map depicting sewer lines involved in the East End Sewer Project at Monday night's City Council meeting, August 10.

Council discusses East End Annexation

By Amy Rankin
Managing Editor

The Carlisle City Council met in regular session Monday, August 10, with Mayor Ronnie Clark presiding. The meeting began with comments concerning various topics the Council plans to discuss at their next regular meeting. Among these topics were two possible Ordinances concerning both the excessive noise laws and the enforcement of a nightly curfew for youth 15 years and younger. The Council plans to bring these issues more light at their next scheduled meeting in September.

Several citizens were in attendance for Monday's meeting and used the opportunity to ask various questions about the East End Sewer Project. A map depicting sewer lines in the proposed area was displayed for their citizens who expressed a desire to acquaint themselves with the Project. The Council gave a unanimous vote to adopt Ordinance No. 7, the Annexation of the East End Sewer Project. Mayor Clark stated that KRT is to do a light study in the project area to procure where security lights will be located in proximity to the properties affected. The next item of business was a resolution adopting the Dorseyville and Henryville Urban Renewal Plan. The Council unanimously accepted the resolution which states that the properties in these neighborhoods which are found to be "blighted" will be demolished and the area redeveloped.

The Council introduced four new Ordinances during Monday's meeting. These Ordinances deal with such issues as procurement standards, streets involved in the Sewer Project and the Affirmative Action Plan. The last item of business was a discussion between Council members and Mayor Clark concerning a number of properties in Henryville. The properties have been ordered to be cleaned and the cases paid; however, the matter is still left undone. The City plans to give a brief notice to the owners before going into court. The owners will be additionally taxed for non-compliance. Council members agreed unanimously to the proposition and adjourned for the evening.

Council members and citizens listen as Mayor Ronnie Clark talks about future plans for the City at the meeting Monday evening, August 10.

Fiscal Court accepts bid for Goosecreek bridge

By Amy Rankin

The Nicholas County Fiscal Court in regular session Tuesday, August 11, with Judge Executive Charles Smith presiding. The meeting opened with bids for the bridge construction on Goosecreek Road. After hearing the bids, the Court accepted one from Dillon's in Farmington for $19,000. In addition to offering the lowest bid, Dillon's also guaranteed to have the bridge within 13 weeks.

Another item of interest from Tuesday's meeting was an alleged fruit tree destroyed by county road crew. Earl Plank states that the county removed a fruit tree from his property without his consent and has asked the Court to either replace the tree or award a sum of $75 for damages. After discussion, the Court voted 3-1 to replace the tree with a comparable product. County Attorney Jack Conley will notify Plank of the Court's decision.

The next item for discussion was the Phase II Water Supply Plan. The Court recently received information from Bluegrass ADD that they will lower their fee to $8,000. A representative from Howard Engineering spoke up and said his company could do it for $7,000. After talking with Carlisle Mayor Ronnie Clark, the Court learned that the ADD may be able to get additional funding from the state to proceed with the project. Mayor Clark also stated

A "thank-you" to the citizens

From the very first memories I can recall the problems she had with her health. After a long fight against the many sicknesses she suffered, my grandmother passed away last Wednesday evening. As her family gathered in the hospital to say good-bye, she simply exhaled her last breath before going on to be with the Lord.

Although we miss her presence here in this life, it was a very beautiful thing to know that she was crossing over Jordan and Heaven was her reward for the long race she had run.

Benefit concert planned at Plummers Landing

There will be a benefit concert at Plummers Landing, Christian Church on Saturday, August 15th at 7 p.m. The concert will feature The Hours of Faith and The Cooper Sisters.

I would like to say thank you to the community for your understanding in my week-long absence. The time away was well spent in that I was given an opportunity to say good-bye to my beloved grandmother and thank everyone for your patience and consideration in my time of loss.

Your concern was greatly appreciated. A deed was reviewed by County before the Court concerning the property purchased by Dr. Bob Sparks. The deed stated that the property would be first available to the Nicholas County Fiscal Court if it was ever sold again.

After covering the deed in full, the Court gave unanimous approval to authorize Judge Executive Smith to deed the property over to Sparks.

The Court went on to their next item of business, which was a resolution for road improvements in the county.

After carefully reviewing a letter from the state, the Court agreed to the resolution to allow the work to be done on Buffalo Trace, Lecust Grove and Burns Roads, respectively.

The Court then gave a unanimous agreement to allow an account to be established for the Goosecreek Road bridge project.

that he has contacted a number of other ADD districts and has learned that they are not being charged for the work at all.

The Court decided to table a decision until a later meeting, wanting to see what other steps may be taken to reduce or eliminate the cost.

A discussion was also held by the Court concerning a hazardous gas that has allegedly been found seeping from the old landfill.

A representative from Howard Engineering plans to see how much of the gas is actually leaking from the landfill and where the actual original source may be located.

The Court hopes to get the matter resolved soon and plans to completely close the landfill due to a quarterly cost of $3,200.

The Court has been attempting to close this particular dump site since 1993, with limited success.

After announcing a closed session meeting, the Court adjourned for public business for the month.

Interested individuals are also encouraged to attend. It will take the cooperation and ideas of many Nicholas Countians to make the celebration equal to or better than the 1974 one held here to celebrate Kentucky's 200th and Nicholas County's 175th birthdays," said a spokesman who reminded that the celebration that featured the publication of the "History of Nicholas County" and which Bicentennial Committee evolved into the Nicholas County Historical Society, still very active today. Nicholas County will be 200 years old on December 18, 1999, the date the State Legislature formed the County. Its first Court met at the home of Martin Baker on June 2, 1800.
