Santa dropped these letters!

Dear Santa, Hello! My name is Colin Hunter-Silver. I am 4 years old and I live in Henderson. I have been pretty good this year but next year I promise to be better. I would like to have a nice car, a train engine, a toy airplane, a Street Shark, and Golytes, a H-flipper jacket and lots of other things. Please don't forget all of my friends at Happy Days. My cousin Mike will have you some milk and cookies under the tree.

Love, Colin

Dr. Pam Sparks, a Carlisle dentist, has taken a course in air abrasion, the so-called "painless dentistry" that is a cavity filling procedure without drills or needles.

Painless dentistry comes to Carlisle

No drill, no anesthetic, and no pain

By Leigh Stone Managing Editor

Patients desiring a cavity filling, or any other dental work, can now avoid the pain and discomfort of a drill and anesthetic. This is a new system for cavity preparation, explained by Dr. Pam Sparks, a Carlisle dentist, who said he has been using this new system for several months.

"This is a new system for cavity preparation," explained Dr. Pam Sparks, a Carlisle dentist, who said he has been using this new system for several months. "It eliminates the two things people don't like the most, the noise they don't like and the pain they don't like."

Dr. Pam Sparks went to a one day seminar in Cincinnati sponsored by the University of Kentucky. He said he was "in a class with some of the best dentists in the world."
