Tuning In by Sally Stone

IN FOCUS: STEVE RAILSBACK, who plays the curiously well-named Col. Vice on FOX's sci-fi series, "The Vision," made his acting debut in at age 7 in "Cinderella," and in the Prince, but the Prince' cousin.

Over the years, Railsback has refused to be typed. Just when audiences thought they'd pegged him as a tough guy "type" in films such as "The Line of Fire," and "The Forgotten" which he co-wrote, co-starred and co-produced with Keith Carradine and Stacy Keach, (James Keach directed), he did the comedy, "Armed and Dangerous" with the late John Candy. He also played some fascinating sci-fi characters before going into "The Visitor." One of the more memorable was his "X-Files" role as Duane Barry, a former FBI agent who believes he'd been abducted by aliens.
