Fish and Wildlife leaders looking for habitat improvement volunteers

The Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources (KDFWR) is looking for landowners in western Fleming, eastern Nicholas, and northern Bath Counties who are willing to implement habitat improvement practices (especially fescue conversion) to benefit quail, rabbit, and grassland associated songbird populations. This project is an offshoot of the KDFWR's Habitat Improvement Program. The goal of this project is to encourage private landowner participation within a relatively small area in order to achieve a more noticeable effect on local wildlife populations. KDFWR is prepared to provide technical assistance and cost share incentives, along with available equipment, etc. to landowners participating in this project. Some practices that we would especially like to cost share for, would include conversion of fescue to more desirable grass and legume mixtures, fallow field rotation of crop lands, establishment of warm season grass buffer strips, and establishment of shrub rows. Lands converted from fescue to more desirable forage may be used in properly managed grazing systems. Through this project KDFWR may also provide additional cost share money to CRP, EQIP, and WHIP projects. If you are interested in participating in this project or would like more information about what is involved, you may contact the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources at (606) 784-6428.

Home Tips

CUCUMBER TIP — It is generally accepted that a great deal of the nutrition in fruits and vegetables is in the skin. We peel cucumbers mainly because the skin tends to be tough.

If, after thoroughly washing an unpeeled cucumber, you take a fork and run it lengthwise along the vegetable and then slice thinly, you will have none of the toughness and all of the extra nutrition. In addition, there is the decorative effect. I have done this for years and everyone loves it. Christine F., South Euclid, Ohio

• • •

IRON TRICK — When I iron, I keep a pair of scissors handy for trimming threads from garments as I go. This keeps me from forgetting to do this. Jeanne C., Seneca Falls, N.Y.

• • •

EASY STORE, EASY POUR — I always save empty dishwashing liquid plastic bottles with the pop-up tops. The new short ones are best.

I refill them with shampoo and creme rinse for my kids' showers. There's no more spilling of shampoo, broken-off flip-tops, messing lids or shampoo that's half water from no top.

Breakfast program available to Nicholas County students

The National School Breakfast Program was launched as a pilot project in 700 schools in 1996. Today, the School Breakfast Program serves 6.5 million children in over 65,000 schools each day. Schools are using innovative ways to make it as convenient as possible for kids to eat school breakfast. There are many children who go to school every day without eating breakfast. Studies show that there is a link between eating a nutritious breakfast to educational achievement. Recent studies by Dr. Alan Meyers, a Boston pediatrician, the State of Minnesota, and Harvard Medical School/Massachusetts General Hospital showed that students who ate breakfast:

- Were more productive
- Recorded fewer absences
- Demonstrated improves classroom performance and higher test scores
- Displayed fewer behavior problems, including less anxiety and hyperactivity

These studies prove what educators have known for years; hungry children can't learn. Students who attend Nicholas Co. High School and Nicholas Co. Elementary School have the opportunity to participate in the School Breakfast Program each school day.
